Ice-Discs Startle Pembroke Citizens

—CP Photo

Citizens of Pembroke, Ont., were amazed recently to find these discs of floating ice covering parts of the Muskrat River running through the town. One resident suggested this might be a basis for the flying saucer story. Most agreed the discs were formed by small chunks of ice spinning in eddies below the dam, growing larger in the sub-zero weather until they become too big for the eddies to hold, then floating free as pictured.

Truman's Call for Unity Gains Favor of Congress

Some Lawmakers Want Show Of More Action by Allies

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP).—President Truman's call for American strength and unity in the face of Communist aggression drew strong support from Congress today.

Some of the lawmakers who listened to his message noted, however, that co-operation was a two-way street, and demanded a stronger showing of determination by the other countries menaced by Russia and her cohorts.

(See also story on Page 5.)

Others commented that the President's domestic and international legislative program was set forth in broad and general terms which would have to be spread out in closer detail before intelligent decisions could be reached on individual points.

Sam Rayburn, Speaker of the House of Representatives, said the message "met the present world situation head-on."

The Senate Democratic leader, Senator Ernest McFarland of Arizona, approved Truman's ten-point legislative program, called the message "uplifting" and predicted it "will revive a spirit of determination among our people to work for the preservation of free government throughout the world."

Senator Kenneth Wherry of Nebraska, Republican floor leader, announced he would introduce a resolution demanding in the name of the Senate that no American ground troops be sent to Western Europe "pending determination by the Congress of a policy on that matter."

Sen. Wherry contended that Mr. Truman had failed to present a global policy for the United States, leaving "the inference that the past policy of drift and improvisation is to continue."

House Democratic Leader John McCormack of Massachusetts called the message one of courage, strength and confidence.

House Republican Leader Joe Martin, also of Massachusetts, commented:

"It is reassuring that there is to be no more appeasement of Russia . . ."

Avoid Move On Chinese

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP).—A majority of British Commonwealth countries tonight appeared anxious to avoid branding Red China an aggressor in Korea. They think this action could soon lead to war.

This was their first reaction to an American approach suggesting that the United Nations ought to punish the Chinese Reds if they again turn down proposals for a Korean cease-fire. The punishment envisaged in the U.N. charter includes economic and military sanctions. The United States view was set forth to 30 non-Communist U.N. members during the week-end.

It was said that the prime ministers made "considerable progress" toward finding common ground in their attitude toward Far East problems.

However, informed observers believe there still is a wide gulf between those Commonwealth countries which favor recognition of Communist China and those which, like the United States, oppose it.

For Britain, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin presented a plan to solve the problems of Korea and Communist China.

The "Bevin Plan" consists of these six points:

1. Recognition of Communist China and its representation at the United Nations;
2. A cease-fire in Korea;
3. Creation of a security zone or "no-man's-land" in Korea;
4. Setting up of a U.N. commission to deal with immediate problems in Korea;
5. A "phased" withdrawal of both Chinese and United Nations forces;
6. A free and impartial plebiscite in a united Korea.

India, represented by Prime Minister Jawaharlal Nehru, has asked that Red China be a member of a U.N. commission to supervise these elections.

The plan has been the basis of discussion of the Far Eastern crisis. These discussions will continue tomorrow. The conference will last ten days.

U.K. Delegate Urges New Cease-Fire Try

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y., Jan. 8 (AP).—Britain's Sir Gladwyn Jebb today urged the United Nations to make one more attempt to obtain a cease-fire in Korea.

He indicated that Britain was not yet ready for a final decision on American demands for U.N. condemnation of Red China as an aggressor. The American demands are being pushed in behind-the-scenes talks and have not yet reached the U.N. Assembly Political Committee in a formal document.

Sir Gladwyn told the Political Committee that a "last effort" for a cease-fire should be made before more drastic steps were considered. The committee then adjourned until Thursday.

The British delegate warned Red China that a final break with the U.N. and all the U.N. represents would have a "dreadful effect" on the Chinese people.

"Look before you leap is a wise maxim in foreign affairs. If we do leap we should all leap together."

High diplomatic sources at the U.N. indicated Britain and other countries might go along eventually with the American proposal for a verdict condemning Peiping as an aggressor.

Sir Benegal Rau of India, one of the members of the U.N. Cease-Fire Committee, was reported to have desired a committee adjournment until Monday to gain more time for an answer from Prime Minister Nehru on a proposed set of principles for a settlement of the Korean affair. But Sir Gladwyn was understood to have said that until Thursday was long enough.

Britain and India have recognized Red China and have favored a seat for Peiping in the U.N., but Sir Gladwyn noted that the British Commonwealth had almost a division of troops fighting in Korea and the U.N. forces in Korea would have to be given all possible support while hostilities continue.

Hint Canada May Back U.S. Policy

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP).—Canada's reply to an American call for a get-tough policy toward Red China was crystallizing tonight.

There were reports Canada would, with reservations, back the United States bid for the United Nations to brand China an aggressor in Korea and to take economic and political measures against Peiping.

But there was no confirmation here. Officials said Canada's policy was being formulated in London, in New York and here with fairly steady contact among the three points.

Reports said he was finding that some of them felt it could lead to general war in Asia.

In Ottawa, External Affairs headquarters received formal notification of the American stand, a "written communication" delivered through the United States Embassy.

Report Clock Escapes Fall

Memorial Arena officials are having trouble with the big time-clock again.

The main cable holding the heavy clock over centre-ice is reported to have broken last Tuesday. Auxiliary supports prevented a second crash.

Arena officials refused to comment on the report of the new breakage last night.

After the break Tuesday, according to the report, the main cable was spliced and apparently bears the weight of the machine at the present time.

Kill Everything Moving, U.N. Airmen Instructed

TOKIO, Jan. 9 (Tuesday) (AP).—United Nations airmen today were ordered to kill anyone moving behind Communist lines in Korea—in or out of uniform—except women and children.

These instructions were given to combat Chinese and North Korean tactics of wearing civilian clothing as a disguise or using civilians as a screen for advancing troops.

Aground, an estimated 10,000 Chinese, including Mongolian cavalrymen, massed 28 miles south of Seoul, evidently in preparation to attack withdrawing United Nations forces in Western Korea.

A.P. correspondent Stan Swinton said the air order was prompted by the Reds' cynical misuse of civilian attire to conceal movements and to infiltrate Allied lines.

Throughout the Korean campaign, United Nations forces have paid heavily for humanitarian treatment of Red troops posing as refugees in the traditional white garb of Korean civilians.

The buildup of the 10,000 was at Osan, abandoned Monday by rearguards of the United States Eighth Army. Thousands more Communist troops were concentrating at fallen Suwon, eight miles north of Osan.

MET RESISTANCE

In Central Korea, Red captors of Wonju ran into fierce resistance when they tried to move south. They were still trying to cut in behind the retreating Allies.

The United Nations covering troops chose to fight at a point only 95 air miles north of the old Pusan beachhead to hold back the enemy moving south from Wonju.

Wonju, occupied by the Reds after a three-day fight, is 95 miles from Waegwan, the northwest pivot of the old beachhead.

One United Nations regiment wiped out a battalion of the 27th North Korean Regiment west of Wonju, killing the Red commander and his staff.

"HEARTBREAK HIGHWAY"

The Communist buildup at Osan was along "Heartbreak Highway." Here, during the first two months of the war, outnumbered Americans and South Koreans fought and fell back along it to the Pusan beachhead. From that tiny perimeter the United States Eighth Army burst out last September in an offensive timed with amphibious landings at Inchon. Today, the Chinese, who intervened in Korea when victory over the North Koreans was in sight, appeared getting ready to push back along "Heartbreak Highway."

Some Communist elements penetrated 13 miles southeast of Osan, then were driven back by United Nations units.

United Nations troops quit the burning road and rail hub of Wonju after a valiant delaying action that bought time for preparation of defences farther south.

Correspondents Muzzled By Korean Censorship

Reuters called for a report on the working of censorship from its team of correspondents covering the Korean war. This compilation did not pass through the censors because no "security" was involved.

TOKIO, Jan. 8 (Reuters).—Censorship of Korean war news has grown so tight during the three weeks of trial and error that it is no longer officially possible to say anything more about United Nations troops than that they are in Korea.

The original ban on pinpointing movements, positions and plans has grown to a point where the censors now blue-pencil "derogatory comments" on U.N. troops or commanders, any mention of casualties, or even movements of Communist guerrillas.

Censorship has brought much greater dependence on official releases for news of the tactical situation.

Censors now are cutting hard at front-line reports of the fighting, which previously gave the up-to-date picture often well in advance of official information. This means that most of the "hard" news comes from communiques which are sometimes 24 hours behind events.

INCONSISTENT

There are frequent inconsistencies in the treatment of stories submitted for censorship in the field and in Tokio, though there is daily liaison between the censor groups at American Eighth Army headquarters in Korea and general headquarters here.

During the withdrawal from Seoul an American news agency reported that the Royal Ulster Rifle Battalion of the British 29th Brigade had been surrounded and wiped out. It was understood here that this story was cleared by an Eighth Army censor in Korea.

A reuters correspondent in Korea who investigated the report was told by an army spokesman it was not true.

But a censor forbade him to send the denial on the grounds it violated censorship by naming a specific unit.

Gen. Douglas MacArthur's press officer, Col. M. P. Echols, insists the censorship department is still "shaking down" and will soon sort out its difficulties.

Plane Ejects R.A.F. Pilot; Dives, Burns

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 8 (INS).—A Royal Air Force flight lieutenant parachuted to safety near Shreveport tonight when the automatic ejector in his jet fighter hurled him into the air. The air force plane crashed in flames.

Flight Lieut. Peter H. L. Scott was located, apparently unharmed, across a bayou.

The pilot, on exchange to Hamilton air force base in California from England, was stranded on an island in the swampy, wooded area and a rescue team was expected to reach him soon.

He landed 400 feet from the site of the crash, near the extreme end of the Barksdale field bombing range.

PILOT WAVES

The F-84 pilot was standing up and waving to searchers.

State police found the wreckage late tonight after only the first of a flight of two planes from the Hamilton air force base landed safely at Barksdale air force base at Shreveport.

Disappearance of the second coincided with reports telephoned to newspapers and radio stations that a "flaming ball of fire" was seen plunging to earth over a densely-wooded section about ten miles east of the city.

Searchers Hit Roof After Tip on Stone

LONDON, Jan. 8 (AP).—Searchers for the missing Stone of Scone, stolen from Westminster Abbey, Christmas Day, scurried among the eaves and parapets of the edifice today, but all they got was a soaking in a drizzle.

An anonymous telephone caller, telling the police the 458-pound coronation stone was on the roof of the Abbey, spurred the baffled detectives in a two-hour slalom among the gargoyles.

Police interest in the roof followed the mysterious discovery of the relic's oaken identification plaque in a vacant lot near the Abbey Saturday.

Fanatics Pray In Readiness To Meet God

KEREMEOS, B.C., Jan. 8 (CP).—A seven-branched candlestick, its tapers casting a weird light in a shadowy farmhouse, tonight was surrounded by the "Children of Light."

Thirty-five members of a strange religious sect, under the leadership of a 50-year-old woman, chanted hymns and prayed at the candlelit table.

Some had told friends they were preparing for the end of the world tomorrow, but their leader, grey-haired Mrs. Grace Carlson, would only say:

"I am waiting to meet God. We hope to meet God, but we don't know in what form; only God knows that."

Earlier, her followers had told relatives and friends that Mrs. Carlson had named tomorrow as "Doomsday"—the "Day of God."

SOLD POSSESSIONS

Many of the group of 35 had sold all worldly belongings, disposing of them at bargain prices, to be free of debt when "the Lord comes."

Followers were reported to have burned marriage licences and all personal papers, and to have given up their wedding rings. Nothing worldly was kept.

Police Seek Ex-Convict Far South

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 8 (AP).—Law officers with orders to "shoot to kill if necessary" hunted desperado William E. Cook throughout the southwest today. (See story on page 23).

Police of a half-dozen states, Texas Rangers, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and customs and immigration officers of the United States and Mexico were on the bloody trail of the Joplin, Mo., ex-convict, suspected of killing at least eight persons.

Houston, Tex., was the latest locale placed on the alert. A hitchhiker, Darrell E. Hall, 21, told police he rode all Sunday night from El Paso to Houston with a short stocky man resembling Cook and about Cook's age.

The alert extended to the Canadian border. F.B.I. agent J. B. Wilcox at Seattle said there was no evidence that Cook was in the Northwest, but in this day of airplane travel a man can go a long way in a hurry."

Leads Active Life

Ace Crash Boat Skipper Transferred to Pat Bay

DARTMOUTH, N.S., Jan. 8 (CP).—W.O.1. Vince H. Nicholson, the air force's ace crashboat and Northern skipper, packed his bags tonight and headed for a new posting at Patricia Bay, B.C.

A native of Saint John, N.B., Nicholson spent five years in the R.C.M.P. marine section before joining the air force in 1939.

From 1942 to 1943 he was skipper of an English Channel crashboat. Then he returned to Canada and spent most of his time searching for missing aircraft and ferrying food and mercy supplies to the Northland.

There have been hectic happenings in Nicholson's life.

The air force supply craft Beaver crashed aground on an uncharted shoal in Hudson Bay. Nicholson and his crew spent two days on the dangerous shoal trying to free the Beaver before abandoning ship.

Early in 1950 he ran into more trouble in the Northland.

He was skipper of the supply tug Malahat when her engines broke down north of Goose Bay, Labrador.

Navy and R.C.M.P. ships combined to bring the Malahat and her crew to safety at Halifax after one of the longest tows in Canadian marine history.

At Patricia Bay he will again be in charge of a crashboat.

Minister Reviews Steel Aims

B.C. Demand Placed at 115,000 Tons For Provincially-Smelted Iron Ore

British Columbia could absorb 115,000 tons of provincially-smelted iron ore annually, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald said last night in a radio review of attempts to establish an iron and steel industry in the province.

Mr. MacDonald traced, step by step, various inquiries which have been made into the possibility of a steel industry.

He recalled that in 1940 the Federal Government had conducted an inquiry into the possibility of using high grade ore from Zeballos.

SEEMED OPPORTUNE

"At that time," he said, "it appeared opportune to establish an iron and steel industry in the province. Estimates of the cost of mining Zeballos and Texada ores were made and a report obtained on the cost of an initial hydro-electric development at Campbell River of 30,000 horsepower, the idea being that ore could be smelted electrically and converted to steel at a competitive price."

A report made in 1946 by the Arthur G. McKee Company, of Cleveland, showed a pig iron industry was practical for British Columbia.

Mr. MacDonald recalled that Vancouver Rolling Mills, established in 1948, has a capacity of 25,000 tons annually from scrap.

"The big question," said Mr. MacDonald, "has been one of markets. Until ten years ago the local market was not big enough to justify an iron and steel industry and our ore deposits were known not big enough to interest British or foreign steel makers to establish here with the object of exporting."

Since the McKee report, which set 75,000 tons annually as the maximum market for finished steel products, market conditions have changed, said Mr. MacDonald.

Now there appears to be a market for 50,000 tons of small bars, rods and shapes, 30,000 tons of tin plate, 10,000 tons of sheets and 25,000 tons of plate that can be made in a local mill, the minister said.

Once smelting started, he suggested, there would be a real incentive to develop known ore deposits and to search for new ones.

"There are certain iron ore deposits in this province which have been unworked since 1875," Mr. MacDonald said. "I know for a fact that interests willing to buy and develop these properties have been blocked in the past by unreasonable and impossible terms. I would therefore be prepared, particularly in view of this present national emergency, to consider measures which would make it possible and probable to develop these properties in the interests of the people of British Columbia."

Thirty-five members of a strange religious sect, under the leadership of a 50-year-old woman, chanted hymns and prayed at the candlelit table.

Some had told friends they were preparing for the end of the world tomorrow, but their leader, grey-haired Mrs. Grace Carlson, would only say:

"I am waiting to meet God. We hope to meet God, but we don't know in what form; only God knows that."

Earlier, her followers had told relatives and friends that Mrs. Carlson had named tomorrow as "Doomsday"—the "Day of God."

SOLD POSSESSIONS

Many of the group of 35 had sold all worldly belongings, disposing of them at bargain prices, to be free of debt when "the Lord comes."

Followers were reported to have burned marriage licences and all personal papers, and to have given up their wedding rings. Nothing worldly was kept.

Police Seek Ex-Convict Far South

SAN DIEGO, Calif., Jan. 8 (AP).—Law officers with orders to "shoot to kill if necessary" hunted desperado William E. Cook throughout the southwest today. (See story on page 23).

Police of a half-dozen states, Texas Rangers, Federal Bureau of Investigation agents and customs and immigration officers of the United States and Mexico were on the bloody trail of the Joplin, Mo., ex-convict, suspected of killing at least eight persons.

Houston, Tex., was the latest locale placed on the alert. A hitchhiker, Darrell E. Hall, 21, told police he rode all Sunday night from El Paso to Houston with a short stocky man resembling Cook and about Cook's age.

The alert extended to the Canadian border. F.B.I. agent J. B. Wilcox at Seattle said there was no evidence that Cook was in the Northwest, "but in this day of airplane travel a man can go a long way in a hurry."

Plane Ejects R.A.F. Pilot; Dives, Burns

SHREVEPORT, La., Jan. 8 (INS).—A Royal Air Force flight lieutenant parachuted to safety near Shreveport tonight when the automatic ejector in his jet fighter hurled him into the air. The air force plane crashed in flames.

Flight Lieut. Peter H. L. Scott was located, apparently unharmed, across a bayou.

The pilot, on exchange to Hamilton air force base in California from England, was stranded on an island in the swampy, wooded area and a rescue team was expected to reach him soon.

He landed 400 feet from the site of the crash, near the extreme end of the Barksdale field bombing range.

PILOT WAVES

The F-84 pilot was standing up and waving to searchers.

State police found the wreckage late tonight after only the first of a flight of two planes from the Hamilton air force base landed safely at Barksdale air force base at Shreveport.

Disappearance of the second coincided with reports telephoned to newspapers and radio stations that a "flaming ball of fire" was seen plunging to earth over a densely-wooded section about ten miles east of the city.

Ace Crash Boat Skipper Transferred to Pat Bay

DARTMOUTH, N.S., Jan. 8 (CP).—W.O.1. Vince H. Nicholson, the air force's ace crashboat and Northern skipper, packed his bags tonight and headed for a new posting at Patricia Bay, B.C.

A native of Saint John, N.B., Nicholson spent five years in the R.C.M.P. marine section before joining the air force in 1939.

From 1942 to 1943 he was skipper of an English Channel crashboat. Then he returned to Canada and spent most of his time searching for missing aircraft and ferrying food and mercy supplies to the Northland.

There have been hectic happenings in Nicholson's life.

The air force supply craft Beaver crashed aground on an uncharted shoal in Hudson Bay. Nicholson and his crew spent two days on the dangerous shoal trying to free the Beaver before abandoning ship.

Early in 1950 he ran into more trouble in the Northland.

He was skipper of the supply tug Malahat when her engines broke down north of Goose Bay, Labrador.

Navy and R.C.M.P. ships combined to bring the Malahat and her crew to safety at Halifax after one of the longest tows in Canadian marine history.

As Patricia Bay he will again be in charge of a crashboat.

Minister Reviews Steel Aims

B.C. Demand Placed at 115,000 Tons For Provincially-Smelted Iron Ore

British Columbia could absorb 115,000 tons of provincially-smelted iron ore annually, Mines Minister R. C. MacDonald said last night in a radio review of attempts to establish an iron and steel industry in the province.

Mr. MacDonald traced, step by step, various inquiries which have been made into the possibility of a steel industry.

He recalled that in 1940 the Federal Government had conducted an inquiry into the possibility of using high grade ore from Zeballos.

SEEMED OPPORTUNE

"At that time," he said, "it appeared opportune to establish an iron and steel industry in the province. Estimates of the cost of mining Zeballos and Texada ores were made and a report obtained on the cost of an initial hydro-electric development at Campbell River of 30,000 horsepower, the idea being that ore could be smelted electrically and converted to steel at a competitive price."

A report made in 1940 by the Arthur G. McKee Company, of Cleveland, showed a pig iron industry was practical for British Columbia.

Mr. MacDonald recalled that Vancouver Rolling Mills, established in 1948, has a capacity of 25,000 tons annually from scrap.

"The big question," said Mr. MacDonald, "has been one of markets. Until ten years ago the local market was not big enough to justify an iron and steel industry and our ore deposits were known not big enough to interest British or foreign steel makers to establish here with the object of exporting."

Since the McKee report, which set 75,000 tons annually as the maximum market for finished steel products, market conditions have changed, said Mr. MacDonald.

Now there appears to be a market for 50,000 tons of small bars, rods and shapes, 30,000 tons of tin plate, 10,000 tons of sheets and 25,000 tons of plate that can be made in a local mill, the minister said.

Once smelting started, he suggested, there would be a real incentive to develop known ore deposits and to search for new ones.

"There are certain iron ore deposits in this province which have been unworked since 1875," Mr. MacDonald said. "I know for a fact that interests willing to buy and develop these properties have been blocked in the past by unreasonable and impossible terms. I would therefore be prepared, particularly in view of this present national emergency, to consider measures which would make it possible and probable to develop these properties in the interests of the people of British Columbia."

St. Laurent Sees Threat Similar for Asia, West

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP).—The main struggle in the world today is between "the new Communist Imperialism, directed from Moscow, and the forces of freedom and civilization both in the East and in the West," Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent said tonight.

"It is not a struggle between East and West, but between liberty and tyranny," the Canadian Prime Minister told a distinguished audience at a dinner given by the Canada Club. "It is as much a part of Communist aims to weaken and divide the independent nations of Asia as it is to weaken and divide the Western powers."

"That is why all members of the Commonwealth, Western and Asian, share a common peril, and in meeting it rely upon ideals which are common to us all."

Among more than 500 guests were other Commonwealth prime ministers, in London to confer on problems of Empire concern, members of the British Cabinet and other prominent personalities. Two former Canadian Governors-General—the Earl of Athlone and Lord Bessborough—were among the guests.

Freedom everywhere in the world seemed to be in jeopardy today but not or cold, not one country in the free world wanted any kind of war, Mr. St. Laurent said in his first public speech in Britain since he became Canadian prime minister in 1948.

"Certainly no nation in the Commonwealth of Nations wants war against any other people.

"We have always been ready to co-operate, even with the nations behind the Iron Curtain, for peaceful ends. We would be glad of any honorable arrangement to live and let live.

"But we want to live our own lives in our own way, and most of us have been forced to the conclusion that we are not going to be allowed to live our lives in our own way unless we have the strength to defend our right to do so."

BELIEVE IN U.N.

The North Atlantic Treaty had been concluded because the countries had felt they could not find the immediate security they had hoped for in the United Nations. But they had never given up hope in the ultimate success of that universal organization.

"But we have never felt that the pursuit of security through military strength alone was enough," the Canadian Prime Minister said. "We in Canada have never regarded the Commonwealth, as such, as an instrument for organizing our common security on the basis of our common strength. We do not so consider it today. The security of all parts of the Commonwealth obviously depends upon the right kind of relationship with other nations outside the Commonwealth and very specially on our relations with the United States. But we do believe the Commonwealth has a very constructive role in the world today."

Steward's Hammer No Murder Weapon

By H. T. MATSON

AT SEA, EN ROUTE TO SINGAPORE, Dec. 25 (By Airmail).—At precisely 3:12 a.m., a steward banged loudly on the door, then entered with a hammer in his right hand and a towel dangling from his left.

That this was the end, I had no doubt. But why? And what had I ever done to him? That hammer; and that towel to mop the blood! Decent of him to think about that, of course; for one hates to leave one's blood all over the place, even if one is being murdered on the high seas at 3:12 on Christmas morning.

For a while I lay rigid and wondered just how accurate he might be with a hammer. Had he been practising lately? Would it be over in about two good clunks, or would he shank and maybe slice or top before he steadied down?

Presently the assassin spoke.

"Sorry to disturb you," he said hesitantly, "but it's ryning 'ard and I've got to close the port'ole."

NICE TO WATCH

"Good," I urged relievedly. "Go ahead and close it; hit the damned thing as hard as you like. It will be nice to watch how you do it. I'll bet you're good!"

"Good at what, sir?"

"Well, good at closing portholes with hammers and towels and so forth." I tried to clarify the matter.

"Oughter be," the steward grinned. "Dunnit often enuff. Bit old-fashioned, this pertickler ship, and you got to 'it things with 'hammers' arf the bloody tyme. And you've got to be careful, because if you 'it it too 'ard you'll knock the ruddy ship apart—ha, and wouldn't that be nyce for the blinkin' passengers? Ha, ha, ryte?"

"Oh, undoubtedly, ha, ha." I deemed it wise to show appreciation of his obvious wit. "Don't think much of this ship, eh?"

"Coooo!" my whilom "murderer" exhaled disparagingly. "If there's a ship afloat wot rolls more than this 'ere——"

"You're right," I interrupted, not wishing for the life history of this or any other cargo-freighter at three on Christmas morning. "You're right. She's chronic. And, by the way, what's doing in the galley around this time of day? Any tea, do you think?"

"Might be," the steward sucked on a contemplative lower lip. "Might be; I'll go 'n' 'ave a look. Be back in 'arf a tick."

And later, back he came; and loaded with tea. And we sipped a while and yarned a while. Then finally the steward remembered he was actually on shift, and that it might be prudent at any rate to go and lean in one of the corridors. So off he shambled. And now it's 6:15 a.m. And petty as it all is, the above all happened. And the conversation is pretty near verbatim. Futile, admittedly. But don't forget; I'd been murdered. With a towel and hammer, at three point twelve a.m. on Christmas morning. And the steward, in the end, forgot to close the porthole!

New Portable Wireless Developed by Canadians

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP).—A secret portable, short-range army wireless set is expected to become the first exclusively Canadian contribution of military equipment to joint Western European defence.

It has been designed and developed in Canada and is under test now.

The set's details still are on the secret list but it is believed to avoid one famous weakness of its predecessors in frontline company and platoon use, a long, skinny aerial sprouting skywards as an invitation to enemy fire.

The set was developed by army signals experts and Ottawa has high hopes that it will be accepted as standard by the other nations of the North Atlantic treaty organization.

STILL ON TRIAL

The British have developed a postwar portable set of their own, the so-called 88, but the Canadians think theirs is an advance beyond that. The Canadian set as yet has no numerical identification and still is on trial.

The feeling here is that the first Canadian-made equipment contribution to Gen. Dwight Eisenhower's European army are more likely to fall into the field of electronics than the realm of bigger weapons.

This would involve not only the wireless sets but also radar apparatus. Defence Minister Claxton said recently the Defence Department has already placed "huge" orders for radar equipment for the Canadian forces themselves.

This new production for Europe would be a new phase. The first, already launched, involves the shipment of British-type equipment out of stocks left from the last war.

Commonwealth "Must Solve" Own Disputes

LONDON, Jan. 8 (Reuters).—Prime Minister Liaquat Ali Khan of Pakistan said tonight the British Commonwealth cannot survive unless it is prepared to tackle disputes arising between members.

Speaking to the Canada Club, the Pakistan Prime Minister—who delayed his attendance at the Commonwealth Prime Ministers' Conference because it refused to place Pakistan's dispute with India over Kashmir on its agenda—said he believes the peace of the world depends on peace in Asia.

Liaquat did not mention Kashmir. But he stressed the importance of the Commonwealth in dealing with the problems arising between its members, and said the Western world must help end the "misery" that exists in Asia.

Liaquat spoke after Prime Minister St. Laurent of Canada—guest of honor at the dinner—said the concept of the Commonwealth as a bridge between East and West is a "direct contradiction" of Communist propaganda.

"We cannot ignore the fact that if there is any dispute between any two members of the Commonwealth it is the duty of every member to resolve that dispute," Liaquat said.

"Otherwise, I am telling you quite frankly, this great institution which has great potentialities for good and for peace in the world, will not survive."

Eisenhower Holds Talks On French Pact Support

PARIS, Jan. 8 (AP).—Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower got down to brisk talks with the French today on just what they are going to do to help defend the West against any push from the East.

American military sources said the answers he got help support the general's belief that the Atlantic community can build an international army to defend Western Europe. It was believed the French pledged immediate transfer of their three divisions now in Germany and Austria to the Eisenhower command.

Accompanied by his chief strategist, Lt.-Gen. Alfred M. Gruenther, and two French translators, the general held a ten-minute talk with Premier Rene Pleven and another one of ten minutes with Foreign Minister Robert Schuman.

Then he drove to the Defence Ministry for lunch with Minister Jules Moch who called in his highest ranking officers. The French like to take at least up to three hours for such official luncheons, but within 40 minutes Eisenhower had them back in the conference room.

Agence France-Presse described the luncheon as "without doubt the shortest ever seen in official circles."

After four hours at the Defence Ministry, Eisenhower refused to comment. An authorized source said "all the problems of defending Europe," were discussed.

The French National Assembly tonight reiterated its support for Premier Pleven's $2,100,000,000 rearmament program for 1951 by a 333-to-181 vote of confidence.

MORE MEN

The program calls for raising three more divisions for the Eisenhower command this year and other expansions, such as the training of 1,000 air force pilots.

The Assembly action made the program law. The vote was necessitated by changes in taxation features of the bill that were voted by the upper house, the Council of the Republic.

The three French divisions already in Germany and Austria will be part of an initial 300,000-man force under Eisenhower's command, but the international army may grow to something like 3,000,000 soldiers, sailors and airmen by 1953.

A British Defence Ministry spokesman said in London that Britain will put naval units under the Eisenhower command.

At Bonn it was announced that secret German-Allied talks will begin tomorrow on the possible German contribution. The talks will be in a committee of military experts and may drag on for weeks or months.

NEW SOLID FUEL BOON TO BUSY HOUSEWIFE

More and more Victoria home owners are using Gasco Briquets to provide heat for their homes, according to local coal dealers. This new fuel has really taken hold and if the demand continues it will displace coal to a very large extent.

The reasons are obvious. They are made from pure carbon extracted from oil. No ashes to waste time, to waste money. They're all heat! No other solid fuel can begin to give the home owner the convenience and economy of Gasco Briquets. This fuel burns steadily, with a rosy, cosy glow that keeps your home uniformly warm from morning to night. And with less work.

You fill your furnace just twice a day—forget it the rest of the time. No ashes to carry out ever, and it gives the same carefree heat whether burned in furnace, fireplace, heater or range. That's why the busy housewife likes Gasco Briquets. Available at Victoria Wood & Coal Co., G 2441. ***

Make the 8-night test. After removing makeup, apply a thin film of ZAM BUK. Antiseptic essential oils reduce inflammation, encourage the growth of new healthy tissue, dissolve blackheads, relieve dryness and shininess. Men follow same procedure after shaving. ZAM BUK may be used for any condition of the skin that requires healing and the reduction of inflammation. 30c at all drug counters.

Italy Believes War Avoidable; Anxious for U.N. Membership

ROME, Jan. 8 (INS).—Italian Premier Alcide de Gasperi declared tonight ample possibilities still exist for preserving world peace.

He said:

"I do not feel at all that war is inevitable."

The Premier said Italy favors Big Four talks or negotiated agreements to settle East-West differences, provided there is "basic honesty, sincerity and frankness on both sides."

At the same time, Giulio Andreotti, Undersecretary to the Council of Ministers, declared that Italy "at long last" must be admitted to the United Nations if it is to contribute effectively to European unity and world peace.

The De Gasperi and Andreotti statements came after submission of a list of questions on Italy's position in the present world crisis.

Andreotti, who will visit the United States on an official mission this month, declared:

"The United Nations must be made to function better.

"Every effort must be made in this direction by using new formulas and by opening the doors to those who have the right to enter.

"Italy can proudly say that without its integral contribution it will be impossible to form that European base which, through the United Nations, must play an essential role in world equilibrium.

"For this reason, our admission to the United Nations represents not only a satisfaction owed our country . . . but constitutes a condition to the building of the edifice of peace."

He said Italy, in its foreign policy, would push for European unity and stepped-up joint defence efforts, not as a postwar waif of Europe, but in the hoped-for status of a full-fledged United Nations member.

Domestically, he said, Italy would push forward with social reforms "opportunely integrating the existing program with the new defence requirements."

Politically, he said, the Government would strive to "bring all its citizens closer to the state."

Andreotti expressed satisfaction with advances made in agriculture and industry in the past year with the aid of Marshall Plan funds.

"Let It Snow, Let It Snow"

—Colonist Photo

Many Victoria garage owners, who stocked up on supplies of skid chains this year because of severe Winter last year, are sincerely hoping for "at least a little snow" soon. Malcolm Patterson, employee of garage parts department, is pictured above inspecting big stockpile of chains which may or may not be moved this Winter. Garagemen say they have been double-crossed by weather to date.

Pray for White Winter

Garagemen Find Skid Chains Move Slower Than Molasses in January

By GORDON FORBES

While most Victorians are hoping this will be a snowless Winter, there is one group of men who are silently praying that the heavens will give out with at least some of the fluffy stuff often called the "beautiful nuisance."

These are the garagemen who, with last year's harsh Winter still fresh in their minds, stocked up abundant supplies of skid chains.

Most of them frankly admit they are hoping for a snowfall in the near future. If it doesn't come soon, they say, a large number of garage owners are going to be stuck with an even larger number of chains. While it is true they can keep them for next year, parts department officials don't like having stock on their hands any longer than is necessary.

Declared one frustrated garageman:

"Just one little snowfall. That is all I'm asking for. It isn't a very big request, and if it happens I'll be able to sell most of these skid chains which have been cluttering up the shop."

ANXIOUS

Because recent Victoria Winters have been severe, the garagemen felt justified in placing extra large orders for chains. Although they contend one good snowfall would enable them to sell all their stock, most say they are getting more and more anxious as the weeks roll by.

"The weather has crossed us up so far," said a garageman. "But there is still time for snow—I hope."

Asked about his supply of chains, another parts department official in a downtown garage replied:

"We're loaded with them. Sure did think we would have had snow by now. Just one snowfall would make me happy. I could sell the whole stock in one day."

He recalled how in previous years the town has been sold right out of chains as soon as the first snowfall arrives.

"It's music to my ears to hear that old cash register ringing as motorists flock in to buy chains," he stated. "It is odd how so many drivers go without chains in the hope that it won't snow."

Another accessory firm official admitted he looks at the weather report in his newspaper before the war news.

Noted Flyer Recruiting In Victoria

By FRED McNEIL

Norman E. Bohn, veteran radio navigator of Bomber and Transport Commands in the World War, has been posted to Victoria recruiting service on the Korean airlift.

"Veteran" is a modest adjective to apply to this veteran of the air, who holds the D.F.C. and D.F.M.

During the war he completed 3 1-2 tours in Bomber Command, a feat that few airmen can boast. During his tours he covered most of Europe with the R.A.F.'s 50 and 467 Squadrons, when Bomber Command was the scourge of Hitler's Third Reich. During his tours he shot down Me. 110 and a Junkers 88.

After most men would have been retired to a permanent rest camp, Flying Officer Bohn was transferred to Transport Command, ferrying bombers from United States to England and passengers from United States to Australia.

SKILL RECOGNIZED

In 1947 he was navigator on an R.A.F. aircraft which flew Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin and his advisers to Moscow for a foreign ministers' conference. This was a recognition of his outstanding skill as navigator. He also served as a member of the personal crew to Gen. Carton de Wiat, V.C., K.C.M.G., during a 31-2-month tour of China, Burma, Indo-China, Singapore, Japan, Hongkong and India. Later he was in the crew which flew Sir Leslie Boyce, head of the British trade mission to China.

For the past five months, F.O. Bohn has been radio navigator on 426 Squadron's Operation Airlift to Tokio.

Although he wouldn't say so directly, it is obvious that F.O. Bohn shares the quiet pride of the R.C.A.F., that with only 12 aircraft they have completed nearly 140 trips or one per day, on the perilous, bad-weather route over the Pacific with not a single accident.

F.O. Bohn intimates this story by telling of the magnificent efforts of the R.C.A.F.'s ground crew in keeping planes in the air.

RETURNING WOUNDED

Recently 426 has been ferrying wounded men back from the Korean front, 36 at a trip. During recent months the Squadron has been flying the southern, 6,500-mile route via Tokio, Wake, San Francisco and McChord for better weather.

F.O. Bohn says it's not his place to comment on high-level international policy, but he feels certain from seeing Japanese in Japan that they are with the West in any future struggle.

After operations with Russians and doing ten trips into Moscow, when the Russians insisted on navigating within Russian territory, F.O. Bohn personally thinks the Russians may have one of the big faults which "Jerry" had in the last war. "An order is an order, and the rule of the book is the rule of the book."

That, according to R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. practice, does not make good airmen.

Conductor Gruber Welcomes Soloist

—Colonist Photo

Pianist Marian Grudeff and Victoria Symphony conductor Hans Gruber renewed old friendship yesterday when the 23-year-old Toronto girl arrived here to get ready for her appearance with the Victoria Symphony as guest artist next Monday night. Mr. Gruber first met Miss Grudeff in 1946 when she appeared with the Toronto University symphony orchestra which he conducted.

Marian Grudeff Arrives

Talented Pianist From East Counts On Picking January Daffodils Here

Pianist Marian Grudeff hopes to get a chance to pick daffodils here.

That, of course, is aside from the fact that she will appear with the Victoria Symphony Orchestra as guest soloist next Monday night, attend three rehearsals with the orchestra between now and January 15, and spend her usual four to five hours a day practising.

The attractive, 23-year-old Toronto musician arrived in Canada's "banana belt" yesterday after a flight from Toronto's cold and snow.

That's where the daffodil-picking comes in—it seems that they're not doing much of that sort of thing back East at the moment.

"I even left my raccoon coat and galoshes in Toronto," said Miss Grudeff yesterday, as she sat in the lobby of the Empress Hotel with Symphony Conductor Hans Gruber and described her start as a pianist.

"Mother started me as a pianist when I was 2½ years old — I made my professional debut when I was 11 with the Toronto Symphony Orchestra under Sir Ernest MacMillan," she said.

Mrs. Grudeff's constant vigil at the side of her daughter's piano bench—"she sat and practised with me"—has resulted in a Town Hall (New York) debut in 1946 and an appearance at Carnegie Hall last November 12 for the Toronto-born pianist whose hobby is "reading."

Since she first appeared with the Toronto Symphony at the age of 11, Miss Grudeff has repeated its success eight times — the last time in December.

She was guest artist with the Toronto University Symphony Orchestra when Hans Gruber was conductor in 1946 — she first met Mr. Gruber at this time when her sister, who was a violinist with the orchestra, introduced them.

Miss Grudeff played "at least" a dozen concerts last year and also had time for a few students in her capacity as teacher of piano at the Toronto Conservatory of Music.

She is "excited about being here"—this being her first trip to Western Canada—and hopes to do a bit of sightseeing in the area during the week.

A true Easterner, Miss Grudeff started skating when she was young.

"I sprained my wrist, though, so mother made me stop skating," she said.

However, the maternal edict is no longer in effect.

"Mother can't say very much now that I'm 23; besides it's good exercise," she added with a laugh.

Coal Bins In City Well Filled

Victoria coal dealers and the general public are ready for a bout with Winter—but the frosty contestant won't come out and fight.

Dealers report plenty of coal in their yards and equipment and men ready to cope with any rush in business.

However, they don't expect anything more than a minor flurry even if the weather does get bad.

"People were smart this Winter and stocked up with coal months ago," one dealer remarked. "Generally speaking most coal bins are well stocked and most people have enough fuel to carry them over a short bad spell."

Another dealer, however, warned that a heavy fall of snow would tie up the trucks and householders might have to wait a few days for fuel.

He recalled that about this time last year people were arriving at the coal yards in private cars to buy a sack of coal to carry them through the cold snap.

"It's their own fault if the same thing happens again," he warned.

Rev. Eric Munn Named Canon In St. Barnabas' Church Rites

Rev. Eric Munn, B.A., Rector of St. Barnabas' Church, has been rewarded for his service to his parish, by his appointment as a Canon of Christ Church Cathedral, and a member of the Cathedral Chapter.

The new Canon formally took office in a ceremony conducted by the Bishop of British Columbia, the Right Rev. Harold E. Sexton, before the 11 o'clock service Sunday morning at St. Barnabas' Church.

Mr. Munn is a graduate of the University of Leeds, and the Mirfield Theological College. He was ordained in the Diocese of Liverpool in 1929, serving his first curacy at Wigan under the present Dean of St. Albans.

His work in British Columbia started as priest-in-charge at Quesnel; included charge of the Anglican Indian Mission at Lytton; a staff position at St. James', Vancouver, and he was rector at Fernie, before coming to Victoria.

"Canon Munn's new appointment has given much satisfaction in his parish, and throughout the Diocese, where his ready help and wide and varied interests are greatly appreciated," Bishop Sexton said.

The Bishop has also conferred the title of canon on the Rev. H. T. Archbold, M.A., rector of St. John's, Duncan, in recognition of long service, and service as one of the Bishop's examining chaplains.

The Illusion of Neutrality

MR. Pandit Nehru seems to nurse the illusion that India can remain out of the current world struggle between the democracies and militant Communism. He would have his country adopt a neutral position, neither with nor against either of these protagonists. It is no wonder that his attitude gives grave concern to his colleagues of the Commonwealth.

It is generally accepted as a fact that without the help of India the land masses of Asia cannot be held against the threat of Soviet imperialism. Only India has the manpower to throw into the scale in the event of an all-out Far Eastern conflict with Communist armies. In Asia, also, only India among non-Communist nations has trained troops of proved fighting ability. If these are not to be lined up alongside the West the outlook is far from comforting.

Mr. Nehru's conceptions are not easily reconciled to the Western mind which views the spread of Soviet domination much more realistically. There can be no real neutrality in the present situation, nor is there anything to suggest that any power can secure itself against possible attack by any such aloof stand. India might easily rue the day that she buried her head in the sand should Mr. Nehru's idea prevail.

Except for Turkey, which in any case is a near-Asia power and not an Oriental nation, no Asiatic country has answered the United Nations' call for the Korean campaign. This is worth noting when the balance of world power is being assessed. It suggests that Asia is not anxious to help itself, or else that its affinity with the West is practically nil. Mr. Nehru's policy of neutrality unfortunately seems to point to the latter. If India is unwilling to take the Western Allied side there can be no hope that other Asiatic peoples will.

A Dangerous Bridge Is Everyone's Concern

OFF-HAND statements from anonymous provincial circles asserting that the Province may give a "cool" reception to any request from Victoria for assistance with reconstruction of Point Ellice bridge may or may not reflect official thinking, but they have caused eyebrows to raise here. Victoria did not object when the British Columbia Government deeded waterworks lands, university endowment acres, millions in university cash outlays for capital construction, bridge grants, "relief" highways in Point Grey and other areas, and many other forms of assistance to the Mainland metropolis; which has seldom been so stricken that its annual budget did not eclipse those of all other municipalities in the province combined. This city was glad to see necessary work done.

There should be no attempt now to argue that Victoria, as capital city of British Columbia, has ever asked for or received any form of special consideration that became comparable to that which has been poured into the City of Vancouver. There have been the small grants on account of Victoria College, a university affiliate; a very modest recent donation towards the cost of fortifying the Ross Bay seawall; and not much else that can be singled out as particular attention to this, the provincial capital. Meanwhile through the years Victoria has been the home of Cabinet members, and long the seat of one of them, with three seats in the Legislature; so that no government can well plead ignorance of the facts pertaining here.

On the question of a new Point Ellice bridge, what Government can ignore the existing risk with a long-condemned structure in an area with a population of some 115,000? This route is one of the defence arteries of the garrison region.

Peace or War, Canada Needs More Manpower

IN a recent issue The Toronto Globe and Mail presented a symposium of editorial comment from across the country on the question of immigration. For this it chose newspapers reflecting a wide variety of political opinion and others independent of political alignments. Without exception, the editorials quoted express dissatisfaction with the Dominion Government's lack of policy, in terms ranging from regret to strong condemnation.

The symposium is of value as a mirror of public opinion, adding weight to the representations for a more realistic approach to the issue of manpower that are being made by many non-political organizations, notably the Canadian Chamber of Commerce. A short time ago the Chamber issued a memorandum urging on the Government that world political conditions, Canada's potential but undeveloped natural resources, and its strategic place in world affairs, gave the Dominion an opportunity and a serious responsibility in the matter of immigration. Its submission has received widespread support, outside the Government.

What public opinion is saying now with greater urgency because of the deterioration in world relations was being said by The Colonist and many other newspapers and groups long ago. In peace, Canada must have more population from outside if it is to make the progress of which it is capable; under threat of war, a large accretion of manpower passes from the desirable to the essential.

In the face of so obvious a need for a vigorous, imaginative policy the Government comes up with one wavering program after another, never seeming quite certain where it is going. It can no longer afford to mark time and to disregard the public dissatisfaction and concern so earnestly expressed in this matter.

NUMBER 999

Sir,—I enjoyed reading and appreciated your inclusion on page five of the Sunday Magazine Section the article about how the public aids London Police. I hope your article will result in having a "Number 999" call put in on the Victoria telephones.

I am sure our citizens would avail themselves of the opportunity to work in closer co-operation with our police force and this is the most sensible idea I have heard of for a start.

DEFENCE OF NATION

Sir,—The commendable article on "Defence Preparedness" by R. Barclay Shaw in January 4 edition of The Colonist is a very timely, public-spirited warning and impressive appeal to all freedom-loving Canadians.

The civil defence movement in Canada should unquestionably be more rapidly advanced. This fact is further emphasized by your editorial (also January 4) in which you referred to the recent Communist sabotage of military equipment and installations in Toronto.

Your editorial (January 5 issue) "Only Conscription Will Arm Canada," must surely be endorsed fully by all Canadians who have the intellectual capacities, the courage and the vision to review the present situation with proper consideration of Canada's obvious duty as a democratic nation.

R. M. MacDONALD (Major, Ret.)

THE INTEREST DOLLAR

Sir,—I think our Government should have refrained from the use of methods in practice by some stock salesmen who promise safety and security in half-worthless shares. Thousands of people with small means, prudent and saving for the time when they are no longer able or wanted at work, were inspired by Government and its agents to buy savings certificates, bonds, annuities and the like, as the best security to provide one for old age and a guaranteed income. The Government, with full knowledge of and support at least in part in the trend of inflation, has made misleading statements to those depending on it. It is not returning the purchasing power of the money it has received to those who have trusted it. For many, the future need of its savings has arrived, and over a half is lost. There is a distinction between marketing to financial institutions who use it as stock in trade, and those who save for the future. How about the aged and the widows? Thousands of them have a small income from annuities, or bonds converted into annuities, of about $50 a month or so. They are not even entitled to a pension or charity. Why, in all fairness, are they disregarded? While the Government consents to a cost-of-living bonus, higher wages, subsidizing trade and industry, regardless of need. If the result of saving is poverty, no wonder many conclude that spending all you earn is wise . . .

GEO. BASKIN.

SWEEPSTAKES

Sir,—The Minister of Health's public statement, that British Columbia Hospital Insurance premiums will probably again increase, calls for an immediate solution to keep payments down to their present level.

Hospital sweepstakes administered solely by the Provincial Government would be the most popular and practical remedy and should be adopted without further delay.

The Clod and the Pebble

"Love seeketh not itself to please,
Nor for itself hath any care,
But for another gives its ease,
And builds a Heaven in Hell's despair."

So sung a little clod of clay,
Trodden with the cattle's feet,
But a pebble of the brook
Warbled out these meters meet:

"Love seeketh only self to please,
To bind another to its delight,
Joys in another's loss of ease,
And builds a Hell in Heaven's despite."

By TOM TAYLOR

A MISTAKEN theory often cited to explain away the short-comings of an administration is that people get the kind of government they deserve. They don't. Often they deserve far more than they get.

As, for instance, right now.

Modern life makes it impossible for people in the mass to do much other than trust the leaders they have elected to look after their affairs. Governance is so complex a business that citizens at large cannot keep pace with its day-to-day developments, nor are they aware of the minutia upon which many decisions are based.

They are not privy to information at the disposal of their political leaders.

This, then, makes it important that in times of national crisis leaders should lead; that they should exhibit positive qualities, and that they should be frank and open with the people they represent.

* * *

There is a terrible feeling of frustration among the people of Canada these days, an empty sensation that we are drifting with the tide, vacillating and aimless, in an international situation fraught with dire possibilities.

Never before was there a greater need for the strong, clarion word, the unhesitating affirmation of purpose. Instead of being summoned to bend our energies to the task which even a blind man could see lies ahead, we are soothed by syrupy phrases and the promise that only a limited effort will be needed.

In private our leaders may be grave, but in public they are gay.

For all the world as though Canadians were children, and not able to face unpleasant facts. It is our political leaders who refuse to face them, either because of party expediency or because they are paralyzed by events too big for them.

They should be telling the nation the stark truth about the grimness of what may lie ahead.

What, instead, do we get? Smooth, evasive phrases . . . such as:

Everything is in hand. Business can go on as usual. Don't worry, there will be no war in our time. Anyway, we have plans to meet any emergency. A survey is being made. A pamphlet is being issued. The manpower ceilings have been lifted. We are seeking an arrangement with Red China. The United Nations are working for peace.

And so on, indefinitely.

* * *

Yet, although not so well informed as their leaders, the public are aware that these pleasantries do not jibe with reality. They know that other nations are being thrown into high gear, that armies are being marshalled, that civil defence is out of the academic stage, that the threat of war is real and must be faced.

They know, too, that at the moment this country could scarcely fight its way out of a paper bag. They know that we have insufficient planes, insufficient men in uniform, insufficient ships in commission, insufficient arms of any kind. They know that civil defence is almost a joke. They have seen our delegates at Lake Success speak bold words and then run for cover when the die was cast.

They are, frankly, confused, disappointed and disheartened. They long for a stand to be taken, for their leaders to show courage and initiative, for them to put expediency aside and face the future with resolute eyes. They long, indeed, for a call to action, a call that is unequivocal, and one that they can answer with good heart and will.

Canadians, as of now, deserve a leadership they are not getting.

Soviet "Countermeasures"

By JAMES WAKEFIELD BURKE
North American Newspaper Alliance

BERLIN.—East Germany will not stand idly by while West Germany is armed. Mere talk about the Allies arming Western Germany will bring about a speedy remilitarization of Russian-controlled Germany.

Also, it is up to the Germans and not the Russians to take these "counter-measures." Soviet political adviser V. Semjonov pointed these sharp realities out to Soviet Zone Premier Otto Grotewohl in confidential talks held in East Berlin recently.

In these talks Semjonov informed the German premier that plans for West German remilitarization make it necessary that counter measures by the East German Government be put into effect immediately.

This statement is interpreted in Berlin as a virtual order for the East German Government to proceed at once to build up an East German army, preceded by an announcement of compulsory military service.

This new army will be something quite different from the existing People's Police. A new name has already been planned for it. It will probably be called "National Army," similar to the "National Front" organization which is supposed to embrace all Germans, East and West alike, and to put them all on the side of the Soviet Union.

* * *

The Russians have no great confidence in the People's Police as far as stopping a real Allied-sponsored West German army is concerned. However, officials of the Soviet-controlled East German Government claim that through the People's Police they have a head start in forming a real army. It will serve as the hard core upon which to build the national army.

Plans are already completed to increase the People's Police by 15 to 20 divisions within the next few months. A large number of high S.E.D. (Soviet Zone Communist Party) functionaries have received orders alerting them for service in these new divisions. This indicates that the People's Police now takes precedence for the first time over party work.

As early as last July the Soviet Zone Minister of Interior compiled a list of 6,000 party members, who, according to East Berlin informants, will be sent to Russia for military training. It is believed that these men will become the "fighting commissars" of the new East German National Army. The commissars were political officers used in the Russian Army to keep the Communist Party line keenly alive among the Russian soldiers.

* * *

While Semjonov told Grotewohl that it is up to the Germans themselves to take "counter measures," so far the East Germans have had no say in what is going on. It is all being master-minded from Moscow.

Moscow claims that all her satellites east of Germany demand a quick remilitarization of Eastern Germany, since they do not want to rearm themselves in order to defend the East Germans from a Western German army. Fear of a strong Western German army has caused the Eastern satellite block to change its attitude toward a "strong German democratic republic." Now they are urging Moscow to build up the East German Republic as quickly as possible. "Only a German army can defeat another German army," they say.

The Grotewohl Government also plans to add more teeth to the recently formulated "law for the securing of peace," which gives the East German Government the right to punish any German found guilty of serving in armies sponsored by the Western aggressors. It will be an offence equal to treason for any German to serve in foreign armies or in units under foreign supreme command.

Such a law was forecast in the Russian peace draft handed to the East German Government, first revealed by this correspondent last September.

United States officials here frankly admit that this new law promulgated by the East German Government has had a "far-reaching effect" on the attitude of West Germans as far as rearmament is concerned. Most Germans say they will only take up arms again provided the Allies train them some place else besides Germany—Canada, America or Australia.

Where the Money Goes

(From The Globe and Mail, Toronto)

WE, and doubtless many others, have received in the mail from Ottawa a handsome booklet. It is the annual report of the Industrial Development Bank to the Minister of Finance for the fiscal year 1950. It is a very nice peice of typography, with eight full pages of illustrations, decorated with original art work on the cover and some inside pages, and printed on expensive paper in two colors.

A single letter to the Minister and single mimeographed sheets of summarized statistics for disiribution to newspapers and other interested parties would have served the purpose equally well—at a very small fraction of the price for the de luxe work of printing art.

It was Mr. Abbott as Finance Minister who promised the House of Commons to save every possible dollar of administrative expense. It is also Mr. Abbott who authorizes this wasteful job, which includes as a preface a page devoted to a quotation from the preamble of The Industrial Development Bank Act.

In 1939 the Government's total expenses for such printing and stationery amounted to only $2,500,000. Last year it was reported at the hugely swollen aggregate of close to $13,000,000. For the current year it will skyrocket far above that figure if all such relatively small sub-departments and agencies as the Industrial Development Bank (assets just over $31,000,000) continue to waste both materials and labor on merely routine reports.

Observation Car

By G. B.

MANY a man has found that a knowledge of simple cooking stood him in good stead at some time or other. Willie, the radio expert, had cause to wish he had learned a few simple tricks with a skillet from his mother, whose marble cake and apple pie would have won first prizes at any fair in Canada. "Dad and I are going to Vancouver for the week-end to see the bowling," she announced one morning. "How am I going to eat?" Willie asked, while he gobbled liberal helpings of hot cakes, sausages and fried eggs before dashing off to his radio repair shop. "You will just have to manage, son. We shall leave Friday afternoon and return Sunday morning. I will see there is plenty of pie, cake, bacon, eggs, cold potatoes and vegetables for salad on hand." Willie's mother replied. In due course the couple departed for the Mainland, and Willie returned with misgivings to a quiet house at 6 p.m. He decided to make coffee and fry bacon, eggs and potatoes for his supper, with only a faint idea how to proceed. He managed to boil a kettle of water on the gas stove without mishap, and then loaded a drip pot to the brim with coffee. It overflowed immediately he filled the top with water, and extinguished the gas flame. Willie burned his hand slightly taking the pot to the kitchen sink. He managed to rescue half a cup of coffee so strong that he hesitated to drink it. Next Willie heated a large cast iron frying pan and filled it with sliced cold potatoes, forgetting to grease it first with lard or butter. The potatoes stuck fast and commenced to char over the hot flame. Willie removed the pan from the stove and set it on a rubber sink mat, which almost burst into flame with a horrible smell. Ten minutes later he was seated at a lunch counter ordering a hamburger and coffee.

The Packsack

By GREGORY CLARK

THIS stage of Winter is often characterized by slush, mud and puddles. To the numerous hazards of city and town life is now added that of being sloshed by passing vehicles.

The sloshers are divided into two camps: those who drive with a conscious and deliberate intention of splashing other cars and pedestrians; and those who drive entirely unconscious and unaware of the spray they are flinging in all directions.

Kind-hearted people will scarcely credit that there are any who would deliberately drive a car so as to squirt filth on innocent bystanders. But the police have ample records to prove that there are. One of the commonest types is the individual who is accidentally smothered in slush and mud by a passing motorist who promptly becomes a sort of vengeful lunatic, and goes on a rampage of squirting other cars, just to get even. But there is also the purely malicious type, drawn from the same sub-normal strain among us who go in for vandalism, scratching up bus and street car seats and so forth, who get a deep thrill out of veering their cars into puddles in order to splatter, say, a group of pedestrians waiting at a bus stop. The more nicely dressed the pedestrians, especially if they are girls, the deeper the thrill, apparently.

Every year, in every city and town, a certain number of these sub-normals are overtaken by justice. The injured parties get the car licence number and unite to bring the offender to book. Sometimes, another motorist will follow and overtake the slosher.

But is this vicious slosher as bad, actually, as the motorist who does his sloshing all unconsciously? I, for one, don't think so. The commonest offender, and the worst, is the driver who goes cheerfully and innocently on his way through the dirty streets flinging filth in all directions. He is the type who is most violently indignant when sloshed himself. And if he were on a jury, he would convict a deliberate slosher with a sense of tremendous justice.

Western Buildup Calculated Risk

—INTERPRETING THE NEWS—

BY WILLIAM L. RYAN
A.P. News Analyst

There is an atmosphere of Alice-in-Wonderland fantasy about what is going on in Europe today.

Frenchmen, Belgians, Dutchmen, Germans know the strength of the potential enemy massed to the East. They know they would be overwhelmed tomorrow if that enemy suddenly chose to march.

By comparison, Western forces in Europe are pitifully puny. They know that, more than anything else now, the West needs time.

The 12 Foreign Ministers of the Atlantic Alliance have announced they will build up Western Europe militarily to a strength of 1,000,000 men in the ground forces—but the goal is to do this by 1953.

Between now and then, think the Dutchmen, the Frenchmen, the West Germans and the Belgians, won't we be at the mercy of a mighty army which could swoop down at any time?

Would not all the men and arms poured into Europe before full strength is reached be wasted if the Russian armies marched to the West?

Would the Soviet armies stand by until 1953, idly watching the gradual buildup of the West?

MUST MOVE FAST

The logical answer would seem to be that the Russians, if they mean to take over Europe at all, must move before the West is strong enough to resist successfully.

If Western leaders suspected the Russians would march this year, would it make sense to pour in arms and men in insufficient strength to turn the tide? Logically it wouldn't—unless the Western statesmen and generals, are fairly confident the Russians will not march.

Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower and his staff, the United States State Department and all the rest seem confident enough that they can build up European strength—that is, that they will have the time to build it up.

TWO ANSWERS

There are two possible answers to this riddle:

1. That the U.S. is so far ahead of Russia in the production of atomic bombs that the Russians, if they marched, would do so with the almost certain knowledge that A-bombs would rain on Moscow itself. With this fear as a deterrent, the Russians would have no choice but to give us the time while they tried to build up their atomic stockpile.

2. That inside Russia itself there are chaotic conditions which the Iron Curtain has kept from the eyes and ears of the Western world in general. We already strongly suspect a good deal of trouble has erupted in the Soviet Ukraine. There may be trouble elsewhere.

With these factors in mind, the buildup in Europe becomes a calculated risk.

"Fight If We Must" Truman Tells U.S.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 8 (AP).—President Truman declared today that "we will fight, if fight we must" to block the threat of world conquest by Russia.

In a rousing, 3,500-word speech, heard by millions over radio and television networks, including the Trans-Canada network of the CBC, Mr. Truman called for a fast United States mobilization effort capable of producing 50,000 planes and 35,000 tanks a year if needed.

Solemnly, he pledged that the United States would forsake neither Western Europe nor other free nations in the struggle against Red aggression.

He said more money, a "major" tax increase, a bigger draft of manpower, greater powers to impose wage and price controls, and continued aid to allies would be needed to prepare for the possibility of "a full-scale war."

Mr. Truman was addressing a joint session of Congress in his annual "state-of-the-union-" message, so called because the U.S. Constitution imposes upon the President the obligation of reporting to the Congress from time to time on the state of the union.

He declared:

"We are preparing for full war-time mobilization, if that should be necessary.

"The threat of world conquest by Soviet Russia endangers our liberty and endangers the kind of world in which the free spirit of man can survive.

"All free nations are exposed and are all in peril. Their only security lies in banding together."

Mr. Truman bitterly denounced Russia for waging "an evil war by proxy" in Korea, and called it a move by "the Russian Communist dictatorship to take over the world step by step."

He said the United States was willing "as we have always been, to negotiate honorable settlements with the Soviet Union," but with outthrust jaw he declared:

"We will not engage in appeasement."

Mr. Truman went on to accuse the Soviets of keeping Russia and its satellite states "in a state of perpetual mobilization," and he declared:

"The imperialism of the czars has been replaced by the even more ambitious, more crafty, and more menacing imperialism of the rulers of the Soviet Union.

"The Soviet rulers have made it clear that we must have strength as well as right on our side. If we build strength . . . the Soviet rulers may face the facts and lay aside their plans to take over the world. . . . That is what we are trying to bring about.

"That is the only realistic road to peace."

Quebec Church Again Enacts Ancient Rite

QUEBEC, Jan. 8 (CP).—An ancient rite performed in Paris Roman Catholic churches in remembrance of a miracle 1,500 years ago is enacted every year in a small, picturesque church here on Quebec Harbor with the blessing of thousands of loaves of bread.

The miracle, attributed to a young shepherdess named Genevieve, was the feeding of Paris during its siege by hordes of the Hun chieftain Attila in the year 451. The rite of the blessing of the loaves of Ste. Genevieve was introduced here in French colonial days.

The rite is part of a special Mass dedicated to Ste. Genevieve—called a Votive Mass—and, Quebec's Notre Dames des Victoires Church is the only church outside of Paris allowed to celebrate it annually on the first Sunday after Epiphany.

Parish Priest Joseph Boulin officiated Sunday at the special Mass in a tiny chapel near the church crowded with his Lower Town parishioners, many of whom helped make the 200,000 loaves.

The tiny loaves—called here "Les Petits Pains de Ste. Genevieve"—are made of flour and water without yeast.

Placed in a large wicker basket, the "Petits Pains" are blessed during the Mass.

In Quebec, tradition attributes many special powers to the little loaves which are carried on one's person or placed in the home.

Canada's Greatest

"Fridolin" Proves Stage Power

TORONTO, Jan. 8 (CP).—Gratien Gelinas proved to Toronto tonight what his native Quebec has known all along—that he is Canada's finest actor.

The diminutive French-Canadian with the melancholy, Pierrot face scored a tremendous hit in his "Ti-Coq," a smoothly-flowing rightly-written play, undoubtedly the greatest dramatic work from the pen of a Canadian.

"Fridolin" had his audience of play-wise first-nighters wrapped up after the first of its 12 scenes in two acts. They gave him an ovation at the end and after prolonged applause drew from him a modest little curtain speech.

Critics were as pleased with the play as with Gelinas' superb acting and the fine support of his cast. Herbert Whittaker of The Globe and Mail said it "will be a long time before the Canadian theatre experiences an evening as full of excitement as tonight's."

The accents of the bilingual cast heightened the authenticity of Fridolin's moving story, sprinkled liberally with salty French-Canadian idiom that lost nothing through translation.

A capacity audience saw the 40-year-old author, producer, director and star in the play that was staged more than 300 times in French and English in Montreal and is headed for Broadway.

"Ti-Coq," meaning "Little Rooster," is the story of a soldier who feels his illegitimacy deeply and yearns for the security of a wife, a home and children. He finds the right girl, only to lose her to a civilian while overseas. On his return he finds she still loves him. His struggle against his desire to run away with her provides a moving, ironic tragedy.

Gelinas brought "Ti-Coq" into Toronto with a hearsay reputation that goes back more than a decade. Theatre-goers had heard for years of his revues and the character he created — "Fridolin," an impish French-Canadian Dead End Kid.

But until tonight few here had had an opportunity of assessing his place in the Canadian theatre.

Goldeye on Way Back; Gourmets Cheer

WINNIPEG, Jan. 8 (CP).—Maybe the "vanishing" Winnipeg Goldeye isn't disappearing from Manitoba's lakes after all.

The fisheries branch of the Provincial Government today had good news for devotees of the celebrated delicacy. The catch of the little fish with the prominent gold rings around its eyes is on the increase.

Twenty years or so ago commercial fishermen puffed as much as 1,000,000 pounds a year of Goldeye from Manitoba lakes. Then suddenly production fell sharply. In the 1946-47 season, a mere 70,000 pounds—and that means about 70,000 fish because they average a pound apiece—were brought to market.

GRADUAL CLIMB

Then a gradual climb set in. The next year the figure rose to 83,800 pounds, then to 180,500. Now the fisheries branch has announced figures for the 1949-50 season—228,500 pounds.

That's just Manitoba's production, of course. Although the succulent fish usually is called Winnipeg Goldeye, it is widely distributed, ranging north from the Ohio River and from northwestern Ontario west across the prairies.

One of the best commercial Goldeye fisheries is in far northern Lake Athabaska, straddling Saskatchewan and Alberta, where 143,000 pounds was caught in one six-week period in 1949.

NOT SAME

Some boosters of the Winnipeg Goldeye claim the species caught elsewhere isn't the real thing, but science says otherwise.

Goldeye has been a table favorite since around 1890 when an experimenting gourmet discovered its delights when cured. Freshly caught, the flesh of the goldeye is soft and unattractive. But, smoked and dyed, it becomes a delicacy highly prized across the continent.

Once they were a standard item on railway dining-car menus. Now they are rarely found on the bill of fare.

NOT CLEAR

The reason for the decrease in the Goldeye in Manitoba lakes never was clear, fish experts say. But they believe it centres on the peculiar breeding habits of the fish.

The Goldeye makes a practice of splashing its way to small lakes and marshes away from the larger waters during the spawning season. During dry years the rivers and creeks leading to these hidden areas become too low to permit passage of the Goldeye.

With most other fish, hatchery experts can take a hand and through artificial insemination aid in production. But this method does not work with the Goldeye.

LINDSAY, Ont., Jan. 8 (CP).—Driving a bulldozer can be exciting. Ask Ross Curry of Haliburton. He was driving the bulldozer near East Lake when it dug out a 400-pound bear. Curry pinned the animal down with the blade of the machine and a co-worker killed it with a rifle.

Oddities

LONDON, Jan. 8 (CP).—Members of St. Michael's Church in suburban Wembley complained to their vicar that the congregation never listened when anthems were being sung.

The vicar couldn't believe it, but agreed to a plan which might settle the question.

In the middle of an anthem his arm suddenly shot up. The organ and choir stopped dead.

From the front pew rang out a shrill voice: "Yes, I always fry mine in lard."

Relating the incident in his parish magazine, the vicar reminded churchgoers: "The House of God is not a salon for conversation."

LONDON, Jan. 8 (Reuters).—Even income tax collectors get a laugh now and then.

For example: They received an envelope the other day containing five shillings (70 cents) and the following unsigned note:

"I once defrauded you of five pounds (about $14.50). Remorse gnaws my conscience. I am sending you five shillings. When the remorse gnaws again I will send you more."

Weather Ship Stonetown on Way To Relieve St. Catherines at Sea

MARINE AND TRAVEL NEWS

By RAY WORMALD

and there was no ceremony yesterday as the weather ship Stonetown slipped from her berth and started her course to Station Peter—900 miles west.

The former frigate is scheduled to start her weather station duties at midnight Thursday, relieving the St. Catharines, which left this port about six weeks ago to open the Canadian weather ship operation.

T. E. Morrison, local agent for the Transport Department, said yesterday the Stonetown would remain on station until February 23, when the St. Catharines would relieve her.

The St. Catharines is due to reach Esquimalt harbor next Monday. It will be a great day for all men in the vessel. Only life they have seen since reaching Station Peter has been in the form of a few seagulls. They have been continually buffeted by storms and heavy seas.

Of the 37 officers and men serving aboard the Stonetown, the large majority are from Victoria. The ship is commanded by Capt. J. W. McMunagle of Edinburgh.

CITY MEN IN CREW

Victorians serving in the ship are: E. Davies, second mate, 1699 Earle Street; J. M. Smallwood, third mate, 2087 Crescent Road; W. H. Brett, chief engineer, 92 Southgate Street; W. B. Harris, fourth engineer, 634 Avalon Road; G. Thomas, fifth engineer, 3251 Orillia Street; J. K. Howe, meteorological officer, 1139 Tattersal Drive; W. G. Tapley, bos'n, 1557 Clawthorpe Avenue; F. Bearpark, quartermaster, 1132 Johnson Street; J. Kleth, quartermaster, 307 Simcoe Street; I. Thow, seaman, 45 Millstream Road; A. K. Barker, seaman, 559 Hillside Avenue; D. A. McAskill, seaman, 2970 Albina Street; G. W. Taylor, seaman, 488 Burnside Road; C. L. Neville, seaman, 1437 Vining Street; Harvey Alcock, donkeyman, 11 Eaton Avenue; L. K. Deall, oiler, RR. No. 1, Sooke Road; T. Davies, oiler, 309 Simcoe Street; James Digman, fireman, RR. No. 1, Saanichton; Walter Fyke, 1214 Yates Street; A. W. Thrift, fireman, 536 Johnson Street. J. L. Brady, fireman, 108 Douglas Street; L. Johnstone, second steward, 853 Burdette Avenue; F. Predette, waiter, 335 Gorge Road; F. W. Threlfall, waiter, 841 Selkirk Avenue; F. A. Digman, RR. No. 1, Saanichton; Fred Tibbets, waiter, 1020 Johnson Street; W. B. Thompson, chief cook, 2967 Shakespeare Street; S. J. Nagy, second cook, 3143 Forma Street, and C. A. Tibbets, third cook, 1020 Johnson Street.

Several of the Stonetown's men are far from their homes. Among them, in addition to the master, are J. Skyberg, third engineer of Hedmark, Norway; A. Smith, bos'n's mate, whose home is at 24 Borenceit, Stornoway, Scotland, and Fin Jenson of Denmark.

SEAMAN BACK

A young seaman who has served aboard the Canadian destroyer H.M.C.S. Cayuga since she left this port early last July for Korea, was home to St. John's, Nfld.

He is 19-year-old AB. Eric Udle, on 30-days' compassionate leave to visit his seriously-ill mother. Later he is to be transferred to the training base at H.M.C.S. Stadacona.

A.B. ERIC UDLE

Interviewed here yesterday morning, the young seaman was peppered with questions about the Canadian ships and the men aboard them.

BRINGS MESSAGES

From his fellow seamen aboard the Cayuka, to their wives, families and sweethearts, he brought this message: "There is no need to worry about us — we're doing all right, and we'll all be home soon. Keep on sending all the letters you can . . . We can never have too much mail."

"Leading Seaman Charles Moore (whose home is at 1205 Duke Street) asked me to say he sends his love to his wife and children. And P.O. Jim Braham said to give a big 'hello' to his folks."

The young seaman said that when he left the Cayuga she was entering her 44th consecutive day of patrol duty.

What do the fellows do when they're off watch?

"They read, write letters and sleep. I didn't know anyone who had any sort of a hobby. Some of them played cards. Life gets pretty monotonous sometimes."

He said the three Canadian warships (Cayuga, Sioux and Athabaskan) had been alongside each other at widely spaced intervals.

AIDS EVACUATION

The Cayuga, he continued, had recently taken part in a large-scale evacuation of Korean civilians and government officials at Chinnampo, on the Korean west coast. Later the Cayuga took part in a naval bombardment of that city.

He said there was a high regard held by all the Canadian seamen, and others, for Capt. J. V. Brock, commanding officer of the Cayuga, and commander of naval operations off the west coast of Korea. Capt. Brock also played a leading role in arranging and carrying out plans of evacuation of threatened cities.

A.B. Udle transferred from the Cayuga to a British vessel and was then taken to Japan. From there he was flown to this coast. He left Victoria yesterday by air for his home in Newfoundland. He had been with the R.C.N. for 18 months.

POPULAR SHIP

The destroyer Huron suddenly became the most popular navy ship in harbor at Halifax when it was announced Saturday she would sail to Korean waters.

Navy officers said that several hours after the announcement they had received 50 applications from the carrier Magnificent, the destransfer to Huron.

This, they said, "is indicative of a high state of morale in the fleet." Huron will sail January 22 to replace the destroyer Cayuga in Korean waters. The Navy didn't say whether any of the applications would be accepted.

FREIGHTER IN TOW

The 10,000-ton Greek freighter Chryssi, bound from Japan to Vancouver, was heading for Port Alice yesterday under tow.

She was taken in tow during the week-end when she ran out of fuel 250 miles off the northern end of Vancouver Island.

The tug Salvage King was sent to her assistance and will take her to Port Alice for refueling.

LOST: ONE PONTOON

Lost: One dredging pontoon, believed to be somewhere in the Strait of Georgia. Finder please notify Department of Transport.

This was the request issued yesterday by local officials of the Department of Transport. Word was received that the wooden pontoon, measuring approximately 30 by 15 feet, and shaped "something like a small barge," had gone adrift from dredging operations being conducted some distance up from the mouth of the Fraser River.

The pontoon is marked with the letter-number combination "P.W.D. 10-35." It is believed the unit drifted down the Fraser and into the Strait of Georgia.

SERIOUS MENACE

"It would be a serious menace to navigation," stated T. E. Morrison, local agent for the Department of Transport, "and we are anxious to learn of its whereabouts."

Collision with the pontoon could result in considerable damage to any small craft. Mariners of the area have been informed of the potential danger.

Such pontoons are used extensively in dredging operations to carry large pipeline sections through which the dredged material is moved.

Noted Editor, Known Here, Dies in China

Well known to many Victorians who lived in the Orient, R. T. Peyton Griffin, editor of The North-China Daily News, is dead.

Mr. Griffin died on his way to a Shanghai hospital of heart trouble and congestion of the lungs. He was 60 years of age.

UNDER STRAIN

He had been with the paper for more than 30 years, the past two or three under the heavy strain of publishing under Communist rule with a greatly reduced staff.

During the war, he spent some months in the notorious Bridge House, Shanghai, and was later interned for the duration in Ash Camp.

The North-China Daily News, the only English-language paper allowed by the Communists, was still publishing at the time of Mr. Griffin's death.

To Be Broken Up

BARK PAMIR

Fate of Four-Masted Bark Pamir Heard With Regret Along Waterfront

Waterfront men of the city, especially those whose memories go back to days long past, received with regret yesterday a report that the four-masted barque Pamir had been sold and is to be broken up in a Belgian shipyard.

Her sister ship, the Passat, will meet a similar fate.

The New Zealand windjammer was well known here and at other Lower British Columbia ports. During 1945 and 1946 she made several trips to this coast. Local tugs used to tow the ship to a point off Cape Flattery when she was outbound.

BUILT FOR SPEED

Built in Hamburg, Germany, in 1905, the Pamir was one of the famous "Flying P" ships, designed specially for speed. The vessel was 331 feet overall, had a 46-foot beam and was of 3,203 gross tons. She established a speed record in 1925 by traveling from New Zealand to the Thames around Cape Horn in 80 days. She won the grain race from Australia in 1939.

The barque carried a total of 34,000 square feet of sail. She was taken by Italy as a prize of war after the Great War, later to be purchased by her original owners and later sold to shipping interests of Finland. She was at Wellington, N.Z., in 1942 when Finland entered the war and was seized by New Zealand. The picturesque vessel has sailed under the flag of that nation up to the present time.

BANK DEPOSITS

OTTAWA, Jan. 8 (CP)—Savings on deposit in Canada's chartered banks at November 30 last amounted to $4,543,032,000, against $4,559,405,000 at October 31 and $4,447,317,000 at November 30, 1949, the chartered bank statement for November showed today.

Call loans in Canada amounted to $164,202,000 at November 30, as against $115,292,000 at October 31 and $119,266,000 at November 30, 1949.

GREAT COLLECTION

The Vatican library has 800,000 books, manuscripts and other items in its air-conditioned galleries.

Executive of the Esquimalt Branch of the Canadian Legion will hold a meeting tonight at 8 p.m. at the Legion Hall, 622 Admirals Road, Aubrey Jones, secretary of the branch announced yesterday.

Order Honors Local Firm

A Victoria organization, the Sands Mortuary Limited, was recently accepted into the fellowship of an international organization of funeral directors, known in the profession as the Order of the Golden Rule. This affiliation was made possible only by the written approval of many local persons in a position to speak with authority on the subject.

Funeral directors belonging to the Order are selected for their ability to uphold the ideals of this international organization. The Order has a membership which, literally, extends around the world, and has been in existence for over two decades.

We understand that, in the funeral directing profession, it is considered a genuine distinction to be accepted into the fellowship of the Order, since ordinarily but one funeral director in each community can belong, and the requirements are such that only those funeral directors of high ethical standing in the profession can attain this distinction.

The member of the Order in each community identifies himself by means of a Symbol, which consists of an armored knight with raised visor, who supports with his right hand a shield, bearing the motto of the Order: "Service Measured Not by GOLD but by the GOLDEN RULE." ***

New York Rise In Silver Price May Aid Mines

VANCOUVER, Jan. 8 (CP).—A boost in silver prices at New York today is expected to be a big aid to British Columbia mines.

Many of them produce silver as a by-product of their operations.

The price advanced 16 1/16 cents to go 1/16 cents an ounce.

The boost was reflected in trading on the Vancouver Stock Exchange, with most silver issues showing gains.

Saanich Couple Back From Palestine

—Colonist Photo.

Shown above in their home at "Cresthaven," Santa Clara Avenue in Saanich, are Mr. and Mrs. Harry Phillips, who recently returned to Victoria after a four-month visit to Palestine.

"None the Worse" for Trip

Elderly Couple Find Grim Reminders Of Arab-Jewish Strife in Palestine

By R. W. MUNGALL

Their "hankering" to visit historic place-names in the Holy Land satisfied, an elderly, retired California farmer and his wife recently returned to their Saanich home following a four-month trip to troubled Palestine.

"We had a lot of experiences, met a lot of nice people and we're none the worse for the trip," summed up 76-year-old Mrs. Harry Phillips, smiling at her tall, grey-bearded husband.

Mr. Phillips, 74, nodded in agreement.

The couple came to Victoria in 1946 after selling the 1,200-acre farm they had operated for 30 years in Beaumont, California. Since then, they have resided at "Cresthaven," Santa Clara Avenue, Saanich.

EARLIER VISITS

Mr. Phillips had visited Palestine twice previously, first on a conducted tour from England in 1935, and again in 1938, when Jewish-Arab strife put an end to his hope of someday buying land and settling there.

"But my wife never had been. She stayed home to look after the farm. I had a hankering to go again and this time I thought she should come too."

Leaving Victoria last August, they arrived in Beyruth, Syria, where they stayed briefly with friends whom they had been sending C.A.R.E. parcels, and then traveled to Jerusalem, where they spent the major part of their one-month stay in Palestine.

Prevented by visa and currency complications from entering Israel, they visited Damascus, Bethlehem, Tyre, Sidon and other centres in Arab-held Trans-Jordan, Lebanon and Syria.

TENSE

From what they saw of them, Arab-Jewish relations still seemed "pretty tense."

Visible from their hotel window in Jerusalem were Jewish sentries patroling behind the rolls of barbed wire separating the Israeli and Arab portions of the ancient city.

A grimmer reminder of distress were the encampments of some 800,000 "refugee" Arabs—former laborers, small farmers and shopkeepers—scattered throughout Arab territory around Israel.

"Their camps are all over the place," said Mr. Phillips. United Nations officials are trying to do what they can to relieve distress, but a U.N. sanitary engineer told me that it seemed hopeless. I was told the death rate last Summer was about 100 a day from disease."

FEW TOURISTS

Despite attempts of the Israeli Government to encourage visitors, tourists are still scarce in Palestine, Mr. Phillips said.

Comparing conditions as he remembered them from earlier trips, he recalled a personal incident during their last visit that seemed typical of present conditions:

"We hired a taxi one day to take us from Jerusalem to Bethlehem. Before the war, it used to be a six-mile trip along a good road. Now there's a detour and the journey's about 16 miles over bad roads. On the way back the Arab police stopped us. They were looking for a Jew who had crossed the border without permission and thought our driver might be the man."

Police questioning lasted about an hour and a half, complicated by the fact that the best the elderly couple could produce in the way of identification were the British Columbia drivers' licences, having left their passports at the hotel.

"They finally released us, though," said Mr. Phillips.

"And now we're able to say that we spent some time in jail, too," his wife added with a smile.

CRITICAL CLERIC

THAXTED, Essex, England (CP)—Rev. Jack Putterill, local vicar, is amazed at the number of churchgoers who listen quietly to sermons with which they don't agree. "When I listened to other preachers I realized how many mistakes we can make," he said.

Natal, South Africa, was so named because it was discovered on Christmas Day, 1497, by Vasco da Gama.

ORPHANS' HOME

The seventy-eighth Annual Meeting of the Subscribers to the B.C. Protestant Orphans' Home will be held in the Council Chamber of the City Hall on Thursday, January 11, 1951, for the purpose of considering Annual Reports, the election of a Board of Managers and transacting any other business in the interests of the Society.

A Managers' Meeting will be held following the Annual Meeting.

Funeral Held For Banker G. F. Marsh

Funeral services for G. Frank Marsh, retired Royal Bank manager, were held yesterday morning at McCall Brothers' Funeral Chapel.

Pallbearers included many former professional friends of Mr. Marsh, who was manager of the Royal Bank's Hastings and Nanaimo branch in Vancouver for many years.

J. Conroy, A. Ashworth, K. Ferguson, J. Loghrin, D. Patterson and E. H. Watchborn were pallbearers.

Mr. Marsh died suddenly last week at his home, 27 Moss Street, in his 63rd year.

Born in Beulah, Man., Mr. Marsh had lived in Vancouver since 1912, and retired here a year ago.

He is survived by his widow; one daughter, Eleanor, and a sister, Mrs. C. F. Rannie, Calgary.

Rev. E. G. Thompson conducted the funeral service, and interment was in Royal Oak Burial Park.

Defence Council Calls For Psychiatric Report

Taxi-driver Peter Frankham, who pleaded guilty December 23 to setting fire to the Lynll Street house in which his estranged wife and children were staying, was remanded to Thursday pending submission of a psychiatric report to the probation officer, when he appeared yesterday in Esquimalt Police court.

Admission as evidence of a report by Dr. D. E. Alcorn, city psychiatrist who examined Frankham, regarding the accused's state of mind at the time of the offence, was asked by defence counsel Joseph McKenna, K.C.

Magistrate Henry C. Hall replied that the case could either proceed at once without admission of psychiatric evidence or be remanded pending referral of the evidence to the probation officer for the court's consideration.

Bail for Ivan Henry Townie, Craigflower Road, charged with retaining 61 dozen bottles of beer, was set at $500.

Accused was remanded to January 15 at the request of counsel J. A. Byers.

Fines of $35 were imposed upon Edward William Brown and Hugh Mutter after both pleaded guilty to charges of careless driving.

Mutter also had his driver's licence suspended.

John Faull, 1406 Ryan Street, was remanded to January 15 after pleading guilty to a charge of careless driving and not guilty to a charge of failing to remain at the scene of an accident.

AIRMEN CO-OPERATE

WARRINGTON, England (CP)—When a United States air force corporal here was about to be married his best man didn't show up. The United States corporal rushed to a club where four Royal Air Force men were playing billiards and they tossed to see who would fill the gap.

Cyclist Thankful for Variety Of Winter Blossoms in City

MORE than 35 individual types of flowers and shrubs were noted blooming by a Victoria resident during a week-end bicycle ride in Victoria and Oak Bay.

E. W. Abraham, 1125 Faithful Street, listed each bloom and shrub in a letter to The Colonist, and said:

"I doubt if there are many other parts of Canada which could produce such a list, and no doubt other observers could supply additional names.

"We certainly have a great deal to be thankful for."

Florence Nightingale I.O.D.E. To Hear Talks on Education

A well-attended meeting of the Florence Nightingale Chapter, I.O.D.E., was held on Wednesday, with Mrs. W. R. Roskelley presiding. The Christmas silver tea held by the chapter at the home of Mrs. George Mellor recently, was announced as successful financially. Mrs. J. Clarke was the recipient of the grocery hamper.

Members were told of the forthcoming visit of Mrs. Frank Stead, Provincial educational secretary, later in January, who would be speaking to them on educational work.

A comprehensive report on immigration was presented by Mrs. H. Lethaby.

The chapter will co-operate in the selling of tickets for the mammoth cooking school to be held at the Club Sirrocco under the auspices of the Municipal Chapter, I.O.D.E., on the evening of January 22, and the afternoons of January 23 and 24.

Mrs. George Moody reported the annual Christmas dinner at the Pavilion an outstanding success. Members of the chapter acted as serviteurs, gifts and novelties were distributed, and Mr. Len Acres provided Christmas music.

Mrs. Florence Huelin reported knitted goods turned in to the value of $10.30 and used clothing valued at $13.75.

Mrs. William Blair, secretary, read a report from Mrs. Emmerson Smith, child and family welfare convener, stating that Christmas gifts had been sent to the chapter's adopted children at the Solarium, and hat 872 stamps had been forwarded to the Queen Elizabeth Hospital, England.

Mrs. H. A. Young was introduced as a new member and inducted by Mrs. J. L. Gates, I.O.D.E. National Councillor.

The chapter's annual meeting, will be held in the form of a luncheon, and will take place at the Strathcona Hotel on February 5 at 12:30 o'clock.

A full executive meeting of officers and conveners, will be held at the home of Mrs. T. Lumsden, 2470 Central Avenue, on January 25 at 2 p.m.

Newcomer From Winnipeg Deplores Lack of Proper Town Planning Here

Victoria has a great deal of natural beauty that is being butchered through wrong production in the wrong places and through lack of town planning, stated Mrs. W. J. Shepherd, national chairman of housing and town planning of the National Council of Women, when she spoke yesterday afternoon to the Local Council of Women at the Y.W.C.A.

Well qualified to speak on the subject, Mrs. Shepherd, who moved here from Winnipeg several months ago, is former executive secretary of the Manitoba division, Community Planning Association of Canada, and was honorary secretary of the highly successful Metropolitan Planning Commission.

She outlined some of the "growing pains" experienced by the city of Winnipeg, which is composed of 12 municipalities, and pointed out that it was only through the support of the Local Council of Women, the I.O.D.E., the Chamber of Commerce and similar organizations that the planning commission carried on despite frequent disappointments.

Mrs. Shepherd expressed regret over the recent resignation of Victoria's town planners and suggested that the Council of Women write a letter to City Council urging that the work be continued. A motion to that effect was passed by the meeting.

"The Winnipeg Town Planning Commission is considered an achievement on the North American continent," she stated, "and one reason that it has been so successful is that the plans have been developed, and implemented not only by the experts but by the citizens themselves."

Mrs. Shepherd is preparing an exhibit of two houses most desirable for post-war construction, which she will send to the tri-ennial of the International Council of Women to be held next Spring in Athens, Greece. She has chosen homes in the $8,000 and $15,000 bracket representing the desired features.

Prior to Mrs. Shepherd's talk, the meeting discussed several resolutions which will be presented at the annual meeting on February 7 and 8 and at the annual meeting of the Provincial Council of Women on February 28, March 1 and 2. Both meetings will be held at the Y.W.C.A. in Victoria.

Delegates to the latter meeting are Mrs. A. M. Perry, president; Mrs. E. E. Harper, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Blair Reid, Mrs. F. H. Parsons and Miss Ellen Hart, with Mrs. A. E. Hopkins, Mrs. R. B. Elliott and Miss Lottie Bowron as alternates.

Mrs. H. I. MacKenzie, reporting on the recent Milk Board meeting which she had attended, advised that the consumers were not adequately represented at the meeting. She expressed the belief that the case presented by the producers and distributors did not cover the situation in its entirety.

Aganza almost laughed. "Bwana, every woman looks at her own child and is sure it is a blessing. Every other woman looks at it and knows that only the years will disclose whether the spirit of good or the spirit of evil has taken possession of the body. As for adultery—bwana, the black man says of his wife that he is merely a pair of hands and stupid as a hen. The white man walks beside his wife on the path, and he talks to her as though to a companion hunter. Hunters must depend upon each other, for their lives sometimes depend upon each other's skill and courage and honesty. Surely, bwana, if you treat your wife like a companion hunter, you must know whether or not she can be depended upon?" Aganza spoke slowly as though she were putting unfamiliar precepts into words for the first time, and her last phrases were half inquiries, half rebuke.

Dr. Charles asked me, "Have you ever heard a preacher put it better?"

I hadn't. Later Aganza said to me, "Mama, I have lived with many different men in many different villages. Each man believed something a little different about the spirits. Some of them had to be mistaken, but who can say which ones? And why should a woman be beaten to death and her babies crushed in one village, when, if she had been sold into a village just across the river she would have been made much of? And all for exactly the same reason!"

CHAPTER XIX

I spent fourteen months in the States—hectic, frantic months—rushing from engagement to engagement. My family and friends exhibited me to other friends and relatives at luncheons, teas, and dinners. Long before my year of rest was up, I was exhausted, and I began to long desperately for the peace and quiet of my primitive jungle, my hundreds of patients, my simple schedule of ten to fourteen hours a day, seven days a week. I wanted to go home.

As the whistle blew and I mounted the steps, my face turned toward Africa, my heart was singing. This time no one from the mission met me at Leopoldville. I was an old hand now, and able to take care of myself. I called on Achmed, or rather on the family with whom I had left him as houseboy a year before. They were delighted with him as a servant and I didn't ask him to return to the bush with me, for he was well satisfied to live in Leopoldville.

Everyone met me at the dock in Tani and we laughed and chattered like monkeys in a treetop—and now and then I had to sniff hard to keep back the tears of happiness.

Aganza was wrapped in a length of white merikani, her version of a suitable nurse's uniform. I would not have recognized Mata Kwan had he not attached himself to Aganza as tightly as the twins were anchored to Madame Doctor.

Job seemed a little different too, a mite less crooked. I looked at Dr. Charles questioningly.

Uncle Wiggily Story - - - -

By Howard Garis

DIGGING OUT

The first thought Uncle Wiggily had when he was bounced off the coasting sled into a deep snowdrift was this:

"I wonder how deep this drift is?"

The first thought of Mr. Turfhog, the jolly English bulldog, was this:

"I wonder if this is one of those funny American customs?"

And the first thought of Uncle Pat Butter the goat was this:

"I should have gone back to my grocery to count the holes in the cheese."

Soon after each of the three friends had thought these first thoughts, they found themselves deep down in the snow. But the snow was soft, and, though it covered them completely, there was enough air to breathe.

"What happened, Wiggy?" asked Mr. Turfhog. "Did I do something wrong, you jolly old rabbit uncle?"

"You steered us into the big bump on the hill. We bounced off the sled and into this drift, Turfy," said Mr. Longears.

"But he didn't do it on purpose, did he, Wiggy?" asked the goat.

"Oh, no, certainly not," replied Uncle Wiggily. "It was just an accident. It nearly happened to me."

"Thank you for those kind words, Wiggy," softly barked the English dog. "And, now that we are here inside a big snowdrift, what is the next thing to do?"

"The next thing to do, I would say," replied Uncle Wiggily, "is to get out of this drift as soon as we can."

Uncle Butter. "We must dig our way out. For it started to snow again as we bumped off the sled and this drift may get so deep that it will take us a week to get out."

"But what are we to dig with?" asked Mr. Turfhog. "I don't see any jolly shovels."

"We shall have to dig without shovels," said Uncle Wiggily. "Luckily I, being a rabbit, can dig well with my paws. Most of my paw digging has been in soft ground. But the snow is much more softer than the ground and I ought to do some good digging."

"I am not such a poor digger myself, old top," said Mr. Turfhog. "In dear old England I dug up many a bone buried deep in the ground. With my paws, I should be able to dig in the snow."

"Then let's start," invited Uncle Wiggily. "We can take turns digging and Uncle Butter can watch and tell which is the better digger."

"Jolly well thought of, Wiggy!" barked the dog. "I'll start."

Mr. Turfhog dug and dug and dug with his paws. But he did not seem to be getting very far out of the drift. Then Uncle Wiggily started to dig with his paws. But he had no better luck. The dog and rabbit made some holes in the drift, but that was far from digging out.

"I think I had better try," said Uncle Butter. "I can lower my head and butt the snow with my horns like a snow plough. I have often horned the snow away from in front of my grocery. Now I will try to horn us out of this drift. Since you two can't dig out, I'll horn out."

The digging of Uncle Wiggily and Mr. Turfhog had made a sort of little room down under the snowdrift. Going to the far end of this snow room, Uncle Butter lowered his head and horns and rammed against the side of the drift like a snow plough.

And then something funny happened. I'll tell you about it tomorrow.

JOINT FINANCING

The first picture since the war to be jointly financed by American and German [illegible] is "Heidelberg," which Arnold Pressburger is producing. Paul Henreid, the star, will direct the English version. Wolfgang Staudte will direct the German version, and Staudte's "Murder Among Us" won last year's Venice Film Festival honor as "the best foreign picture."

The feminine star is Vienna's Ilsa Werner, who is married to an American officer with the army of occupation.

Well, I call that a very diplomatic setup on Paul's part with everybody happy.

5 IN MEMORIAM

MICHELL — In loving memory of William David Michell, who passed away January 9, 1949.

Gone from us, but leaving memories
Death can never take away
Memories that will always linger
While upon this earth we stay.

Ever remembered by his loving wife and family.

PAINTER — In loving memory of our darling mother, Mrs. J. E. Painter, Sr., who passed away January 9, 1948.

Keep on dear good Mother, it has been
A long struggle
But I know your heart is filled with sadness
At times.
Yours was a heart that was unwearying
scattering sunshine all along the way
You know how we loved you, and yes, love you yet.
Though God took you from us, we cannot forget

—Sadly missed by her sons, daughters and grandchildren

PATTERSON — In memory of Harry Douglas Patterson, who passed away on January 9, 1950.

Sweet memories are the first to fall,
Tears are the first to fade,
The fondest dearest best of all,
At peaceful rest is laid.

As the years increase, memories and ties
When blighted is the treat
We faced from before her eyes,
And all too soon was lost

But in God's garden free from pain,
Where grow His fairest flowers
We know that we shall meet again,
This fairest bloom of ours.

Sadly missed by his Mummy and Daddy and brother Mark.

TAPPING — In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Edith Bertha Tapping, who passed away January 9, 1947.

In all the world the hardest and the trial
Was smiled and said Goodbye, and gone to rest.

—Dad and Winnie.

TAPPING — In loving memory of my dear mother, Edith Bertha Tapping, who passed away January 9, 1947.

In my heart your memory lingers,
Always tender, fond and true,
There's not a day dear Mother,
I do not think of you.

Sadly missed by her Daughter, Winnie.

First Plans Approved For $750,000 Barracks

REAL ESTATE NEWS

By TREVOR COLLINS

Preliminary plans for the new $750,000 barracks block to be built at H.M.C.S. Naden have been approved by the Department of National Defence at Ottawa, Birley, Wade & Stockdill, local architects, announced yesterday.

The barracks block, designed to house naval personnel, will be three stories high, "E" shaped in design, and built of reinforced concrete.

When the plans are finally completed and approved, the Federal Department of Public Works will issue a call for tenders. The unit will take about 18 months to construct.

Meanwhile, George Farmer, local contractor, has announced that work on the new $18,000 dental clinic, to be erected on Courtney Street near Blanshard for Dr. Stanley Miles, has commenced.

BLASTING NEEDED

However, construction has been slowed up considerably by rock. Blasting operations are required to clear space for the foundation. The building is expected to be completed by May.

The Department of Public Works is expected to call for tenders in the near future on the new $250,000 Victoria College library.

The revised drawings to bring the cost of construction in line have been forwarded to the Provincial Department of Education by Birley, Wade & Stockdill, and the Government is expected to take prompt action in getting the unit started.

Architect Henry Whittaker, who prepared plans for a new laboratory block to be constructed near the boiler room at Royal Jubilee Hospital, said yesterday that pending final approval from Ottawa, the contract had been let to a local firm.

LOW BIDDER

Farmer Construction Company, 2925 Douglas Street were believed to be the lowest of ten bidders for the job and will probably get the contract. Their tender was $89,987.

Plans for a new office building for Moore-Whittington Lumber Company Limited are being prepared by Architect F. W. Nicolls.

The lumber company plans to consolidate into one office the sawmill and factory divisions of the firm, which are now known as Harbor Sawmills Limited and F. W. Sawmills Limited.

No cost has been set on construction of the unit but it will be two stories high and built of fire-resistant material. It will be located near Turner and David Streets.

Mr. Nicolls also stated that tenders would be called sometime this week on the addition to the Northwestern Creamery Limited at 1015 Yates Street.

McKEAND TO TALK

Major D. L. McKeand will be guest speaker when the Men's Club of St. Martin's-in-the-Fields meet in the Parish Hall, Obed Avenue, on Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Major McKean's topic will be "The Eastern Arctic."

"NEW" IS OLD

The so-called "New" Castle at Newcastle, England, dates from the 11th century.

Burner Fees In Saanich May Be Hiked

Price of oil burner permits may be increased in Saanich.

Councillor W. C. Kersey, finance committee chairman, suggested last night that permits for ranges be boosted from $2 to $3 and for furnaces from $3 to $4. Replacements, he said should be half-price.

Council took no action on the proposal until rates of other municipalities were checked.

Dog taxes will be increased from $1 to $2 for males and from $5 to $6 for females. However, if the tax is paid before April 1 of each year, $1 will be deducted.

Councillor Kersey first suggested $2 boosts, but this proposal was voted down.

RE-ASSESSMENT

Assessor F. S. Green estimated cost of completing the re-assessment of Saanich would be another $23,000. Sum of $5,000 already has been spent. Ten months would be required to complete the task if adequate assessing teams were hired.

Total of 2,024 parcels already have been re-assessed, and there are still 16,500 to be done.

Council decided to hold a special meeting in the near future to decide further moves. Council felt better progress could be made if it was known how much one mill will produce now the municipality is smaller.

APPOINTMENTS

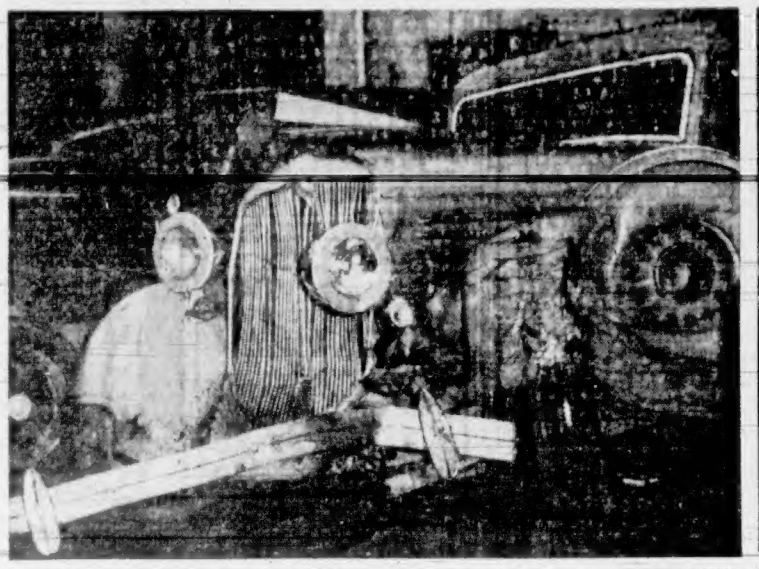
Councillor Mrs. Grace Shaw was appointed to represent Saanich on the Greater Victoria Recreation Council and Councillor Passmore will again serve on the Board of Cemetery Trustees of Greater Victoria.

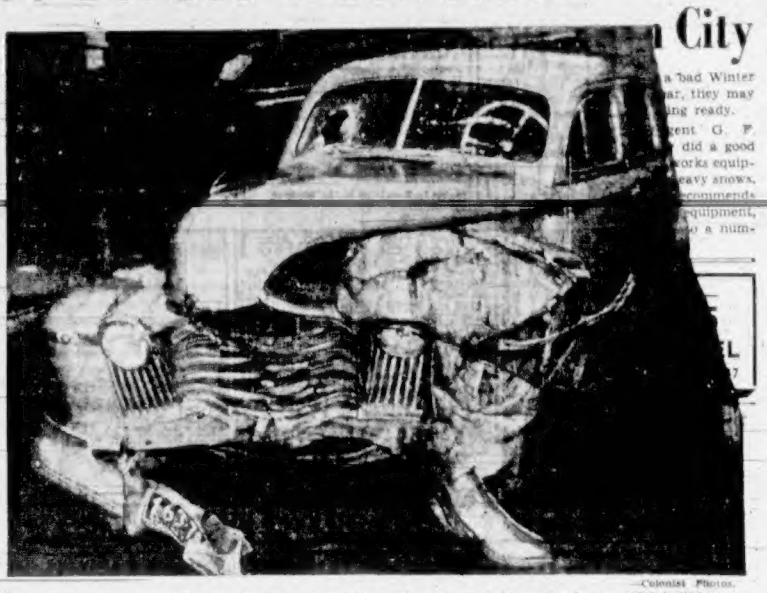
Council agreed to pay $160 as its share of the cost of new Oak Bay street lights on Foul Bay Road. With the old lights, the cost was $49 a year.

CENTRE LINE

A request by V. C. Chadwick, Holland Avenue, for a white centre line on Burnside Road, was referred to the public works committee.

Three Hurt in Fort Street Collision





City police conveyed three men to hospital early Sunday morning after these two cars collided near intersection of Fort and Blanshard Streets. They were Arthur Creelman, 1775 Wilkinson Road, suffering from fractured right leg and chest injuries; Andrew Kurek, 1205 Fernwood Road, facial and scalp lacerations, and John Rynoski, 439 Quebec Street, chin cuts. Police said Rynoski was driving his car (right) east on Fort Street when about 171 feet east of Blanshard Street it was in collision with car (left) driven by Creelman who was traveling west on Fort Street. —Colonist Photos.

Murdoch Stresses Role Of Police for Defence

The important role played by the police in any civil defence set-up was stressed yesterday by Commissioner Brent Murdoch at a police commission meeting.

Attending his first meeting, the young commissioner declared the police force should play a vitally important role in civil defence.

"I feel the commission should give this matter study immediately," stated Commissioner Murdoch.

Mayor Percy E. George, commission chairman, told the commissioner the matter "has not been lost sight of" and that officials of the four municipalities, working on defence measures, have the matter under consideration.

"You will be kept posted," he said.

SERVICE PAY

The commission approved payment of service pay, recently introduced, to 58 members of the department.

Chief John Blackstock estimated the cost this year will be $4,785. Stars for each five years of service will be issued to policemen as soon as they are acquired.

PROMOTIONS

Eight probationer policemen were promoted to the rank of third-class constables. They are Constables John L. Maybin, Fred B. Acreman, Andrew M. Bell, Frank E. Birtwhistle, Jack D. Bowe, John Isaac, Thomas H. MacArthur and Raymond Thomas.

AWARD TENDER

Tender of $350 of Dominion Paint Company for painting the interior of the police station was accepted by the commission. It was the lowest tender.

Tenders will be called for 72 uniforms, 55 pairs of gloves, 216 shirts, ten overcoats and 24 caps.

Visits City

R. J. INNES

Provincial president of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, who will visit Victoria today in course of province-wide club tour. Mr. Innes will meet Victoria President Don Smith and later address a dinner meeting of Victoria chamber at 6:30 p.m. at Pacific Club. Formerly constable with Provincial Police, Mr. Innes is commercial manager of radio station CFJC at Kamloops and was elected provincial president of Junior Chamber of Commerce at its 1950 convention at Vernon.

Officials Expected Today

R.C.A.F. Radar Control Squadron To Be Established for City Reserves

Authorization has been given by the Department of National Defence for the establishment of a reserve air force control and warning squadron in Victoria.

Defence Minister Brooke Claxton, during his recent visit to Victoria, said formation of the unit was being given "serious consideration." It was learned unofficially last night that authorization date for the establishment of the unit had been set for January 15.

ARRIVES TODAY

Wing Commander D. F. Manders, officer commanding the newly-formed A.C. and W. 2442 Squadron at Vancouver, and acting commanding officer of new R.C.A.F. reserve wing set up in Vancouver to take care of all reserve matters in British Columbia, is expected to arrive in Victoria today to discuss plans for the new unit.

Group Captain J. Easton, O.B.E., officer commanding 12 group at Vancouver, will accompany W. C. Manders. They are expected to hold a meeting with various air force organizations in Victoria and lay plans for recruiting key personnel.

A building to house the unit will also be discussed.

W.C. Manders made a tour of Victoria and Patricia Bay airport a few months ago with the idea of finding a suitable location for the unit. Serious consideration was given to the Air Cadet headquarters at Macaulay Camp. No decision was reached, however.

An R.C.A.F. squadron for Victoria is long overdue, according to Air Force organizations in the Greater Victoria area which have been pressing for the establishment of an auxiliary squadron for the past two years.

Despite the statement of Mr Claxton that there was little hope of an auxiliary squadron being based here, former Air Force personnel are still pressing for the flying unit.

STEP FORWARD

However, they felt that the new radar squadron will be a step in the right direction. About 250 men will be needed to fill the ranks of the squadron, but 100 officers and men will see the unit off to a good start.

With the Air Force Association and the Air Force Officers' Association alone, this requirement can be met without calling on other Air Force personnel in Victoria.

It is expected that the Victoria squadron will form as a section of the Vancouver unit until such time as it is brought up to strength.

Oak Bay Sells Two Utilities

Oak Bay municipality has turned over its power and telephone distribution systems in the Uplands to the B.C. Electric and B.C. Telephone companies.

The by-law under which the transaction was made was approved by the Provincial Cabinet yesterday.

The cost to each company was $1. The systems were operated by the utility companies under a 20-year lease from Oak Bay up to last April. The municipality benefits from the deal because it had been responsible for maintenance of the existing equipment.

Chinese Here Unenthusiastic About New Immigration Order

A new Federal immigration order for Asiatics was received with lukewarm feelings by local Chinese yesterday.

The order in council will now allow children, under 21, of Canadian citizens of Asiatic stock into this country. Previously, only wives and children under 18 were allowed to come to Canada from the Orient.

General feeling here is that few Chinese in this country will benefit from the relaxed ruling.

Most Chinese added, however, that the improvement in the Chinese Immigration Act was a good move.

"Passing a law and putting it into effect are two different matters," said one Chinese citizen.

He claimed that, while the Government was relaxing restrictions here, immigration officials in Hongkong, port of departure for Canada-bound Chinese, were busy tightening up other regulations and were making it nearly impossible for the majority of children to join their fathers in Canada.

"They are given such wide discretionary powers that wives and children of Canadian Chinese are being refused entry into this country for technical reasons," he said.

He indicated that at least one-third of the Chinese population here were now Canadian citizens but few, so far, had managed to get even their wives into Canada.

Boring Burglar Breaks Into Two More Shops

Victoria's brace-and-bit shopbreaker struck again over the week-end breaking into two establishments and gaining $50 for his efforts.

At the Old Country Shoe Shop, 635 Johnson Street, he bored several holes in a rear door in order to release the lock. He took the cash from a register.

Similar tactics were used at the Central Barber Shop, 1319 Broad Street, but nothing has been reported missing.

Scott & Peden Ltd. warehouse, Store Street, also was broken into over the week-end, but officials have discovered nothing missing. Entrance was gained by pushing a covering off a broken window.

Mrs. T. Rennie, 3228 Willows Road, reported a quantity of tools stolen from a boat at the Johnson Street Bridge.

Two 14-year-old boys were seen stealing money from milk bottles on house porches on Denman Street.

"I got 19 cents out of this one," a resident heard one of them say.

Dearer Smokes "News" to Dealers

LOCAL retail and wholesale tobacco dealers have had no word of a Vancouver-originated report that the price of cigarettes will jump two cents a pack.

The Vancouver report followed a five-cent boost in half-pound tins of most smoking mixtures. Dealers here say that tobacco manufacturers have not notified them of any price boost.

The present cigarette price is 36 cents for a package of 20, plus a one-cent provincial sales tax.

Takes Things in Own Hands

Motorist, Friend Catch Car Thief After Chase

Ray Pethick, 749 McClure Street, evidently is a man who believes in taking things into his own hands.

In city police court yesterday, Constable L. J. Clark said Pethick's car was stolen January 5 about 6:45 p.m. Pethick immediately called a friend and went in search of the car, and at 9:05 p.m. located it and apprehended the thief.

Charged with the theft was Eric A. Robb, 18, who pleaded guilty and was remanded to Wednesday while a probation officer's report is prepared.

Constable Clark said Pethick observed the car and gave chase, catching up to it on Johnson Street. He called police who arrested Robb, the constable testified.

INADEQUATE BRAKES

Two motorists were fined $15 each when they pleaded guilty to charges of driving cars with inadequate brakes. They were Roland R. Ricketts, 371 Vincent Street, and George W. Archer, 1209 Palmer Street.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE

Robert W. Stone, who pleaded guilty to a charge of attempting to commit suicide, was given a suspended sentence by Magistrate H. C. Hall. He will be required to report monthly to the probation officer for one year, and "must keep away from the situation which caused his emotional disturbance."

"I have learned my lesson, sir," stated Stone.

SAANICH COURT

At a special sitting of Saanich Police court, Paul Latter, 609 Craigflower Road, pleaded guilty to a drunken driving charge and was sentenced to 15 days in jail. He also was prohibited from driving for one year.

The charge was laid after a crash on Gorge Road, Saturday night.

Supports Pandora Location

City Woman Asks Change In Welfare Centre Site

Mrs. A. B. Marshall, 1075 Verrinder Avenue, yesterday called on City Council to support a proposal that the new health and welfare building be built on Pandora Avenue instead of Cook and Pembroke Streets.

Mrs. Marshall pointed out in a letter to Council that the chairman of the social welfare committee, Alderman Mrs. Margaret Christie, had always favored a Pandora Avenue location.

"It would be interesting to know why the majority of the Council members and the mayor, who always has the casting vote, turned down Alderman Christie's plan for a welfare centre to be built on Pandora Avenue," stated Mrs. Marshall.

"It would seem eagle eyes were on the spot which Alderman Christie had wanted in the first place. That is where it should have been in the first place.

"The place proposed on Pembroke and Cook Streets is not the place for a welfare centre," declared Mrs. Marshall.

"The full council would do well to rescind the motion passed by the old council of 1950 even if the council members of that time with the casting vote of the mayor did pass on it as final," she continued.

She said the Cook-Pembroke site would be ideal for erection of a large low-rent apartment building, a theatre, a roller rink or a new school.

Mrs. Marshall expressed surprise that the Local Council of Women, the I.O.D.E. and other women's organizations did not support the stand taken by Alderman Christie.

World Didn't Come to End For City Standfast Students

TWENTY-SIX years ago, a band of "Armageddon" believers waited for the end of the world at Sooke, just as similar religious radicals are doing now at Keremeos, in the Interior of British Columbia.

The 26 people who expect the end of the world today have locked themselves up in a six-room cottage, but are a pretty timid crew compared with their Vancouver Island predecessors, the Standfast Bible Students.

The S.B.S., numbering some 400, set up a camp, consisting of houses and tents, to await the great day of turmoil, from which would spring an age more suitable to the Students than the mad, jazz-and-gin world of 1926.

Nothing happened, and the camp broke up.

Saanich Asks Engineer For New Sewer By-Law

Municipal engineer H. D. Dawson was instructed by Saanich Council last night to devote all his time to preparation of a sewer by-law to be presented to ratepayers not later than the third week in March.

Only other matters to be handled by the engineer will be drainage problems. It was decided Henry Blakeney, superintendent of works, will handle all queries from the public.

PLAN LINK

The sewer scheme will be a plan to hook up with the city's northwest sewer.

Reeve Joseph W. Casey will interview B. C. Bracewell, deputy minister of municipal affairs, on the matter of financing individual house connections and possible methods of easing the burden on property owners in the initial stages of the project.

Council decided that the sewer area will be the same as that covered in the 1949 by-law, which was defeated, plus the area which includes the Paine & Townsend subdivisions on Shelbourne Street.

DRAINAGE REPORT

Mr. Dawson was instructed to bring in a report covering general improvement in the drainage system. He will work on the high spots or bottlenecks in order that property owners may enjoy partial benefit for the money expended before completion of the finished scheme.

All the council decisions were made on the recommendation of the sewerage and drainage committee, under the chairmanship of Councillor Leslie H. Passmore.

On motion by Councillor Pat Bate, council decided to ask Dr. G. F. Amyot, deputy minister of health, in the Provincial Government, if he considers sewers are necessary in Saanich.

WITHOUT CONSENT

The councillor wasn't suggesting it, but he noted that the Provincial Government could initiate a sewer scheme in Saanich without the consent of the electors. There was that power, he stated.

Reeve Casey and Councillor E. P. Cummins thought the municipality would be in an "awkward position" if sewers were forced on people.

Councillor Passmore recalled that the Government was asked to enforce installation of sewers and the council received a "nothing doing" sort of reply.

Wool Shortage Cause of Hike In Suit Prices

The cost of a man's suit is expected to jump from 10 to 20 per cent in Victoria by February, clothiers indicated here yesterday.

And nearly everything made of wool that goes with the suit will take a similar jump.

The shortage of wool in Australia is blamed for the rise in prices of clothes.

One clothing dealer thought that if Victorians refused to buy high-priced woolen suits, rayon suits would make their appearance in local stores. Most American suits are made of rayon.

He expected the jump in price would be felt here sometime in February when new shipments arrive from the East.

"Some well-known brands that have recently left the factory are already affected," he declared.

Players Offer To Defer Pay

Victoria Symphony conductor Hans Gruber describes as "wonderful" the attitude of the orchestra musicians toward the present financial condition of the Symphony Society.

The orchestra met Sunday to discuss ways of assisting the society.

Said Mr. Gruber: "They have been wonderful.

"They have offered to defer all payments of musicians' fees for the rest of the season and take a chance that they might get paid later—if the directors are able to raise the money.

"What it amounts to, in the meantime, is that they will have received only 1¼ months' pay for six months' work," he said.

MacKenzie Says Report Should Not Be Shelved

By FRANK MEADE

The recommendations of the recent Royal Commission on National Development in Arts, Letters and Sciences, should not be completely shelved, even though Canada faces "times of great crisis and danger."

Dr. N. A. M. MacKenzie, president of the University of British Columbia, and Royal Commission member, gave this opinion last night to a University Extension audience at Victoria College.

Dr. MacKenzie apologized to his audience, one of the largest to attend Extension lectures, for "necessary generalities," in dealing with the probable effect of the commission's work. He explained that its report has not yet been made public.

MORE FAVORABLE TIME

When that happens, Dr. MacKenzie said, he thought the question would arise whether or not to postpone action on its recommendations until a more favorable time, when not so much of the national treasury would be devoted to defence needs.

"During the last war, when Great Britain was in desperate straits, there was more done in the fields covered by the commission's report than ever before in England's history. The decision was not undertaken foolishly or lightly by the wartime British Government.

"In these times of great crisis and danger, the Canadian people must be supported, persuaded and convinced that our way of life is worth supporting, and, if necessary, dying for.

"If we expect people to sacrifice and pay taxes, it is essential that we be sure our way of life is worth sacrificing for.

IMPORTANT WORK

"The work of the Royal Commission is relevant and important in spite of critical times," said Dr. MacKenzie.

The commission, during its investigations, held public hearings in 16 cities in ten provinces, and traveled 10,000 miles. Dr. MacKenzie said he logged more than 60,000 miles during his term as commissioner.

More than 1,200 witnesses were heard in connection with 456 briefs presented to 200 meetings, 120 of them public.

Thirteen Federal and seven Provincial Government briefs were reviewed; 87 national, 261 local organizations heard, and 35 private commercial radio stations submitted briefs.

"The volume of written and spoken testimony was, indeed, formidable," said Dr. MacKenzie.

DETRIMENTAL

Working under its terms of reference, the commission unearthed evidence of factors detrimental to Canada's cultural growth, Dr. MacKenzie said.

It found a "feeling present" that the national gallery, museum, and public record department at Ottawa, constituted a "national disgrace."

Dr. MacKenzie blamed the situation on obsolete buildings, inadequate staffs, and lack of planning.

Dr. Kaye Lamb, formerly with U.B.C., has had Government assurance of full support in setting up a national library, Dr. MacKenzie said.

FIRMLY PRESSED

The need for Federal assistance in providing scholarships, bursaries and loans to young Canadians wanting a university education was "firmly pressed," he said.

"Of 143 groups interested in this matter, all but two or three were in favor of the Federal Government providing scholarships for higher education, and financial support of some kind given to universities. I hope that this, in time, will have its influence," Dr. MacKenzie said.

The commission's hearings on Canadian radio and the future of television in this country brought representations from 176 groups, [illegible] of trade and chambers of commerce appeared to champion the rights of free enterprise, and the C.B.C. expressed the views of public broadcasting.

Commercial radio station operators complained that the C.B.C. not only competed with them, but regulated them as well.

IGNORANCE

On the subject of TV, Dr. MacKenzie said the commission found "a lot of ignorance."

Commissioners had to decide whether to recommend that this new medium be developed through the state, or left to private and commercial interests, he said.

A special committee has been set up to deal with a possible Canadian film industry, now being carried on almost exclusively by the National Film Board, Dr. MacKenzie said.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE

The commission also dealt with the formation of a national committee for U.N.E.S.C.O. as called for when the United Nations was formed.

Commissioners were "surprised and gratified" at the degree of interest expressed in its work.

"We never dreamed that such widely divergent groups would be interested in our hearings," Dr. MacKenzie said.

More than 300 persons attended his lecture, and extra seats had to be secured to accommodate the overflow audience in the college auditorium.

Dr. Earle Birney, U.B.C. professor of English, is the next speaker scheduled for the Extension panel.

He will deal with "Censorship" on January 29.

Total Fines In December Top $3,800

City police court was a good source of revenue for the city during December as a total of $3,808 in fines was collected.

This amount came from 1,036 convictions. Largest revenue came from infractions of city by-laws which totaled $1,370. Fines under the Motor Vehicles Act amounted to $1,115.

In juvenile court, 14 persons were charged with 18 offences including breaking and entering, armed robbery, theft, taking a car without the owner's consent, contributing to juvenile delinquency, incorrigibility and speeding.

Total number of accidents, according to Chief John Blackstock's report, was 105 during the month, resulting in injuries to 27 persons. Counting all types of accidents, police administered first aid to 54 persons.

The town of Banff, Scotland, received its first charter from King Malcolm IV in 1163.

May Make Millions

Victoria Inventor Clicks With Draught Preventor

A Victoria inventor, J. Henry Michaud, stands to make a few cool millions if he accepts an offer for his "True View" plastic window insulators, the idea for which was first conceived while he was lying ill and trying to avoid draughts.

A big Winnipeg-Minneapolis syndicate, impressed with the design and principle of the plastic frames, which have been patented and are being manufactured under franchise in Western Canada, have offered Mr. Michaud $150,000 for his patent rights plus a 5 per cent royalty during the patent period.

Mr. Michaud hit on the idea during a long illness three years ago. The double plastic sheets stop draughts and prevent the cold glass from chilling the warmer air in the room.

Many business firms in Victoria are equipping their premises with the product and demand is steadily growing.

Mr. Michaud claims that installation pays off in lower fuel costs over a period of two or three years.

He said that he had not yet decided whether to accept the Winnipeg-Minneapolis concern's offer, but if the syndicate was able to sell the product to only 1 per cent of all Canadian and American homes each year, Mr. Michaud's royalties would amount to about $34,000,000.

"It is tempting," he added.

'Mad Dog' Hitchhiker Killer May Have Crossed Into B.C.

VICTORIA city police and Royal Canadian Mounted Police have been alerted by the F.B.I. to be on the lookout for a "mad dog" hitchhiker, the object of one of the biggest manhunts in history.

Sought is ex-Convict William E. Cook, also known as Billy Cook and Billy Reise, aged 22, who admitted to a California sheriff's deputy, whom he overpowered during the week-end, that he had killed seven persons, including an entire family of five.

The search for the alleged slayer is concentrated on Northwestern Mexico, but there is a possibility Cook may have crossed into Canada from the State of Washington.

Police here were alerted by American police after Cook was reported sighted near the Washington-British Columbia border.

Cook is described as being 150-160 pounds, blue eyes, the right one made of glass, sandy-haired, stockily built and wearing glasses. He has a tattoo on his right arm, "R.R.S." and "W.P.G." is tattooed on his left arm.

"More Than Sorry"

Candidate Would Meet Opponent on Platform

Percy E. Thorp, reeveship candidate in Central Saanich, would like to meet his opponent, Sydney Pickles, on the same platform.

"I am more than sorry to note that my opponent has seen fit to call meetings on the same nights as I had originally advertised and invited all candidates to speak. I should have much preferred to have met Mr. Pickles on the same platform," stated Mr. Thorp yesterday on his return from a vacation.

The candidate said he has agreed to seek election at the request of a large number of old-time residents of the district who feel that "my vast experience in municipal work would be of great value in getting the new municipality away to a good start."

"While I do have certain plans and ideas on which I "think the municipality should be operated, I feel they should have consideration of the whole council. My idea of the reeve's duty is that he should advise and guide but not dictate," stated Mr. Thorp.

CHILLY FALL

M. W. Carmichael, an employee of the Pacific Pile Driving Co., suffered contusions to his right hip and shock yesterday morning when he fell into the harbor from the Evans, Coleman and Johnson Bros., Ltd. wharf.

He was taken by the Victoria Ambulance Service to St. Joseph's Hospital where his condition is reported as "good."

Says Effects Of Alcohol Vary Widely

When dealing with alcohol and its effects on those who consume it, it must be remembered that effects will vary widely on the individual person.

Dr. E. L. McNiven emphasized this in an address to the Gyro Club at the Empress Hotel yesterday. In a talk entitled "Random Thoughts on Chemical Tests for Intoxication," he pointed out that where one person could consume a set amount of alcohol and show practically no outward sign of being under the influence, another person could consume exactly the same amount and be considered under the influence, if not drunk.

A person's state of intoxication, he explained, was brought about not necessarily by the amount of alcohol consumed, but rather by the amount of alcohol which had entered the bloodstream.

SOME SLOWER

He explained that with some persons, absorption of alcohol into the bloodstream was a slow process, while in others it was rapid. The same applied to elimination of alcohol from the drinkers' systems. In some cases it was slow; in others, fast.

Chemical tests, he continued, could show "fairly accurately" the degree of intoxication in a person. That degree, however, changed rapidly within a short time, and could be determined only at the actual time of the test. Alcohol, he noted, was "a study in relatives," in which numerous factors and time elements had to be considered.

Officials in Quandary

Snow Removal Salesmen Get Cold Shoulder in City

The city is giving the "cold shoulder" to a Montreal firm which is trying to interest it in the purchase of a pipe and hydrant thawing machine.

The machine is the latest in a long list of Winter equipment which Eastern companies from time to time have tried to sell the city. A popular line of sales talk involves snow-removal equipment such as ploughs and blowers.

With the apparent return of the usual balmy Winter weather to Victoria, civic officials are keeping their fingers crossed, hoping that the need for Winter equipment will not arise this year.

Possible necessity for Winter equipment places civic officials in a quandary. If they buy the equipment and there is little occasion to use it, they may be subject to criticism for keeping money tied up.

On the other hand, if a bad Winter occurs as it did last year, they may be criticized for not being ready.

City Purchasing Agent G. F. Sharpe believes the city did a good job with existing public works equipment during last year's heavy snows. As a general rule he recommends purchase of universal equipment, which may be converted to a number of different uses.

The Champ

I dunno what YOU guys do 'on your Sunday off, you can probably sleep, or go out & play golf. And I'll bet the little woman trays a nice spread, & gives U a swell breakfast, in your warm cosy bed. Then gets you the Paper, then adds to your bliss, fluffs up your pillow, then plants a big kiss. Well, your pretty darn lucky to have her around, I had to get up, & dig a big hole in the ground. And when I say hole, it's an understate-ment, 'cause the trench that I dug, was real punish-ment. The top turf was easy, I just knifed with the spade, I turned it over, then the top soil was laid. Then with the mattock I gave a poke, & smacked right into . . . the root of the oak. "Hmmmmmm," I thot, "that lousy tree, it just makes a slave of the likes of me. First I was raking its leaves & shoots, now I've gone underground & I'm stuck in its roots." I swung the mattock high on my back, then I hit the brute with all of my smack. "Hmmmm," I muttered, took another swing, it bounced right back, this root full of spring. I rested a bit on my massive mace, while I brushed more dirt across my face. To my trousers I gave a big hitch, then again I swung on the root-of-the-ditch. Then again & again, & I thot of a wreath, when a chip flew up & hit on my teeth. Now I was mad, I stamped on the ground, the knock-out, I sed, will be the next round. Faster, then faster, with very few slips, now I was winning . . . was in the chips. Brute force I was using, all the rules gone, my trunks were slipping . . . I was pouring it on. I heard the crowd shouting, the whistle blew, I, too, collapsed & we were both thru. You will shout & stand on your feet, a knockout you'll say, THIS chesterfield suite. It's built in sections, massive hunks, in this corner, & wearing green trunks. I sprawled on the canvas beside my dike, "say something," sed a voice "into the mike." He knelt beside me, with my dirty paw, I grabbed the mike, sed "Hello Ma. Don't you worry, I'm alright, I did it for you, sure was a tough fight." I tried to get up, using both spades, I heard the announcer, selling razor blades. Queer, I thot, how one be-haved, I suddenly remembered I hadn't shaved. Then I stumbled along, hardly elbow room, but I got to the basement, my dressing-room. More handshakes & a lotta talk, I sat there dead-pan on the chopping block. Then I heard the car, & for me the search, the G.P. & the gals were home from church. 'Twas then I blacked out, gave up the ghost, "you dug the hole, but DIDN'T fix in the post." Then just as I crossed the border line, "Mummy can't do her washing without a clothes line." I sagged off the block, said "iron 'em damp," I guess I was punchy, but still . . . THE CHAMP.

Pickles Assails Charge of Sympathy Campaign as "Childish"

A charge that he was conducting a "sympathy" campaign was termed "a childish statement and unworthy of comment" by Central Saanich reeveship candidate Sydney Pickles yesterday.

Mr. Pickles believed the voters wanted to hear a "sound program" put forward as a recommendation to the incoming council. This, he continued, is what they would hear at his two election meetings at which all candidates had been invited to speak.

Mr. Pickles' first meeting will be at 8 p.m. today at Brentwood Women's Institute Hall and the second Thursday at the South Saanich Institute Hall, Keating.

Referring to the accusation that he was trying to "confuse the electors" by holding meetings on the same night as his opponent, Mr. Pickles said:

"Prior to arranging my meetings I tried to have independent public meetings called by the returning officer, but these could not be accomplished. Before receiving any invitation to speak at my opponent's meetings, my own arrangements had been made, with circulars printed and delivered to the post office for distribution.

"The nights selected were the only practical one available, and this also was realized by my opponent. Four election meetings, instead of confusing the issue, will throw more light on the candidates' proposals. It also will enable the electors from all parts of the municipality to attend the meetings of each reeveship candidate."

Noting that his opponent had announced nobody had authority to make arrangements for police and fire protection and snow-clearing, Mr. Pickles said it was "absurd" to suggest that nothing should have been done to cover the interim period from January 1 to January 21.

Meanwhile, Charles T. D. Whitehouse, secretary-treasurer of the Ward Six Ratepayers' Association, made this statement in connection with an assertion by another executive member that Mr. Pickles' plan for operation of the new municipality had not been endorsed by the ratepayers' group.

"I fail to see that any press report inferred that the ratepayers' association has endorsed any candidate's plan. The association is non-partisan.

"Mr. Pickles, the president, recommended this policy to the executive."
